U. S. FACES 10 BILLION LOSS

CUBA TO ISSUE FIAT MONEY AS ECONOMIC CURE

Machado Bares Big Inflation Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 18.—President Gerardo Machado tonight announced an emergency relief plan which calls for the issue of $60,000,000 fiat money and the establishment of a $100,000,000 farmers' credit bank. He will submit the plan tomorrow to the national economic commission and will demand that Chairman Rafael Montoro, former secretary of state, make an early report to speed the enactment of necessary legislation.

Under the plan, $60,000,000 will be issued in "bonds" to relieve the serious Cuban currency shortage. They must be accepted in all transactions in Cuba for at least 50 per cent of the total payment. The "bonds" will be a national paper money, though not legal tender for international or government transactions. They will be in varying denominations.

[Octavio Averhoff, secretary of treasury, a few days ago announced the total of money in Cuba as $66,807,539 of which $36,979,309 is in circulation $28,114,660 is in bank deposits and $1,813,570 in treasury deposits. Of the total money $31,889,880 is in Cuban gold and silver and $35,917,860 is in American. Of the money circulating $25,836,638 is Cuban and $11,043,676 American.]

Will Form Farm Bank.

The second part of the plan establishes a farm credit bank which will issue $10,000,000 bonds in a $10 denomination, these to be guaranteed by an export tax on sugar, 10 cents per 100 pounds on raw sugar and 5 cents per 100 pounds on refined. With this new tax all present taxes on sugar exports would be discontinued.

The bank, as described by the president, would protect agricultural enterprises, especially sugar, by extending credit to farmers, developing millions of acres of unproductive soil and by redeeming mills and other rural properties which are now under foreign control because of mortgages. This would enable Cuba to control her own sugar production again. It is now almost entirely in the hands of private capital of the United States.

United States Blamed.

The president partially blamed the tariff policy of the United States for Cuba's economic condition and expressed hope for a change in order to let "Cuba save herself." He submitted his plan as a relief measure "to safeguard Cuban independence politically and economically. Today, "Cuba's worst enemy is hunger due to the world depression." He declared that the terroristic opposition to his government which at times has flared into open rebellion is solely due to intense hunger.

Finances Are Tangled.

Stringency of currency has come to the fore several times this year in Cuba. Besides a $10,000,000 deficit at the end of the fiscal year in June, the government has had to raise $16,500,000 to meet service on foreign loans. This was done by further loans and tax advances by oil companies. Cuba had $3,586,959 in silver minted in Philadelphia in April and netted a profit on the transaction. In May, however, the government refused to accept more than 20 per cent silver in payment of taxes and fines, and United States money was circulating at a 3½ per cent profit. The government adopted police measures to stop trading in foreign currency and enforce parity of Cuban money.

Fire on Red Demonstrators.

HAVANA, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A communistic demonstration was broken up here today after police had exchanged shots with the demonstrators. Fourteen persons were arrested, and red flags and banners were gathered up from the streets. Shortly afterward Marianao police broke up another manifestation by firing into the air. They made no new arrests.

Chile to Send Samples of Wines to U. S.; Seeks Sales

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Chilean government is planning to send samples of Chilean wines to the United States, where consulates have been directed to push tentative sales in case the prohibition laws are changed. The department of commerce also is seeking to exchange wines for Colombian coffee.

C. K. VANCE, FLYER, HITS MOUNTAIN, DIES IN FLAMES

Danville, Calif., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Claire Kinsey Vance, 35, veteran air mail pilot, rode to a flaming death against the summit of Rocky Ridge, four miles west of Danville, last night. His body was found today in the charred wreckage of his plane. Vance, fifth among airmail pilots in the United States, started his flying career with the army in the world war and served in France with Quentin Roosevelt, son of the former President, who was shot down behind the German lines.

Alone in a two passenger plane, Vance left Oakland airport at 11:45 p. m. last night with his cargo of airmail for the east. Fears for his safety first were felt after he failed to report by radio to receive instructions concerning the weather ahead.

About ten feet more of elevation would have taken the plane safely over the ridge, which is about 2,000 feet high. It was the last between him and the level Sacramento valley.

Mrs. Vance, the former Miss Lucille Williamson, San Francisco public school teacher, lay in a state of collapse at the Vance home in Alameda. A son, Richard, was born to her six weeks ago.

GIRL'S SUICIDE BLAMED ON BAD LUCK AT BRIDGE

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Miss Marion Helson, 26, shot and killed herself today and friends attributed the act to her dejection over bad luck at bridge.

Miss Margaret Grenat said she visited Miss Helson this afternoon and found her still brooding over a game last night. Miss Grenat quoted her as saying, "No luck, I just haven't any luck," a few minutes before she went into another room and shot herself.

The friends said Miss Helson's lack of success was due to "the way the cards fell," rather than to poor playing.

MISS BARRYMORE GRAVELY ILL, BUT NOW RECOVERING

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The cold which forced Ethel Barrymore to abandon a road trip at New Haven Dec. 1 developed into influenza and then pneumonia, it was learned today. Doctors believe that the crisis is past and that the actress is on the road to recovery. Miss Barrymore is expected to be inactive for several weeks. Her latest play, "Encore," was to have been given its Broadway opening tomorrow night.

Terror Reign Plot Revealed in Argentina

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 18.—This city escaped not only a political revolution but a reign of terror, according to documents seized by the Argentine government in its raids to crush the radical party's conspiracy to revolt.

With the government's prompt frustration of the plot and the imprisonment of radical leaders, including former Presidents Yrigoyen and de Alvear, the police today made public letters, telegrams, codes, maps and instructions found in the possession of the plotters. They show that Buenos Aires was to be turned over to criminals and terrorists of the worst type.

"Loot and Kill," Slogan.

One document reveals that at a given signal the jails would be thrown open and that the released prisoners would be given 48 hours in which to loot and kill without being molested.

The most sensational of all the evidence was a series of prepared bulletins which were to be sent to the interior by the revolutionary forces. One proclamation said that the public had engaged in incendiarism, that there were wholesale assassinations, that acts of vengeance were being perpetrated and that the self-imposed government was having a difficult time restraining frenzied throngs from violence.

Other documents included a code used by the plotters to send out telegrams and letters to their followers. They contained the names of nine regiments and thirty officers.

As a result of these revelations, the people of Buenos Aires today began to realize the enormity of the conspiracy.

4,000 Bombs Seized.

Police have seized 4,000 bombs and hand grenades and expect to find more in raids which have continued ever since the plot was discovered last Friday. Documents show that it was planned to manufacture a supply of thirty to forty bombs for each participant in the uprising. Four large civilian groups, armed with firearms and explosives, were to meet in four zones of the capital and advance towards the center.

So certain is the government that the conspiracy has been squelched that it has not yet declared a state of siege which was authorized by parliament yesterday.

"The danger no longer exists," a government spokesman said.

The government announced today that former President Yrigoyen had been sent to the island of Martin Garcia at his own request. Yrigoyen was offered passage to Europe, where he would be free to do as he pleased, but he preferred to remain under guard in a farmhouse with a garden on the island.

CALIFORNIA DRY LAW REPEALED; TO FREE VICTIMS

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The state prohibition enforcement act ceased to be a California law at midnight tonight, by virtue of its repeal Nov. 8, and tomorow Gov. James Rolph Jr. is to sign pardons releasing more than 100 men and women convicted for its violation.

Gov. Rolph announced he considered the will of the people justified extension of executive clemency to those persons who were being penalized for violating the statute. The vote was 1,459,835 to 658,951.

The governor asked all California district attorneys to give him lists of violators in jail.

The responses named more than 200 men and women, 115 of whom were incarcerated in Los Angeles county. Many of these were to be released during December at the expiration of their terms, leaving about 137 who might benefit by the govenor's amnesty.

U. S. EMPLOYE FOR 58 YEARS; DIES, AGE 80

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Jay Stone, the first stenographer employed by the war department, who retired on a $1,000 pension in 1927 after working for the government 58 years, died in a Brooklyn hospital Thursday at the age of 80, it was learned today.

Stone was private secretary to three secretaries of war—Alexander Ramsay, Robert Todd Lincoln and William C. Endicott. He also had charge of President Garfield's funeral.

He enlisted in the cavalry in his native town of Bangor, Me., at the age of 13 and saw service on the Indian frontiers. Four years later he was appointed a war department clerk, and was the stenographer-reporter at Sitting Bull's surrender, when the story of the Custer massacre was told.

HUNGRY BUREAU PRISONERS GET THEIR BOLOGNA

It was chow time at the detective bureau last night and Lockup Keeper Michael Phelan was worried. He had thirty prisoners and not enough bologna to go around. A call for help was sent to a half dozen police stations. "We need some bologna," pleaded Sergt. Andrew Richards. "Sure, we've got bologna here," replied Sergt. Peter Breen at Ryde Park. A bureau squad was dispatched and it brought back about two yards of bologna. The prisoners ate their fill.

CITIZENS' BOARD WILL DECIDE ON CITY PAY TODAY

Officials Hope for Checks Tomorrow.

Fred W. Sargent, chairman of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, said yesterday that the committee is to hold a meeting this morning in his office, and expects to have an announcement later in the day concerning the committee's efforts to limit 1933 tax levies, get Christmas pay for public employes and prevent a default on bonds of the city and school board.

Public officials are hopeful that the announcement will be a statement that the committee has attained its objectives, and will recommend that Chicago banks purchase approximately $5,000,000 worth of tax warrants providing two weeks' pay for the 45,000 employés of the city, school board, county and sanitary district. The banks, it is understood, are ready to make the purchase as soon as the Sargent committee recommend it, although none of their representatives has said how much they are prepared to invest.

Should the committee's action be favorable, some public officials expressed the belief that the pay checks would be ready for distribution tomorrow.

City Limit Agreed On.

On Friday the city council passed a resolution limiting its 1933 tax levy to a figure agreeable to the Sargent committee, and also a series of ordinances providing for the refunding and payment of $23,489,190 in bond and interest payments which the city and school board must meet on Jan. 1 and Feb. 1. With the exception of mid-yearly interest payments, the refunding arrangements will take care of the funded debt of the city and schools until January, 1934.

Mr. Sargent pointed out yesterday, however, that there is still much to be done to prevent a bond default by the city and school system. Under the plan approved by the banks and the city council, the city will issue $15,036,000 in refunding bonds to be traded to the bondholders for an equal sum of its own bonds maturing Jan. 2.

Banks Offer Assistance.

The banks have offered their assistance in persuading the holders of the maturing bonds to accept the refunding bonds. The old bonds are held principally in large blocks, by trust companies, insurance companies and large estates. Unless these holders agree to the exchange, a default may occur, since the banks have said that they are unable to advance 15 millions in cash to pay off the holders of the maturing bonds.

"I believe, however," said Mr. Sargent, "that it will be easy to convince the bondholders to accept the refunding bonds. If they refuse, the bonds which they now hold will go into default, with a consequent reduction in their market value.

Sinking Fund Provided.

"If they accept, they get bonds at a higher rate of interest, 6 per cent, with the provision of a sinking fund in which future collections of delinquent taxes will be placed. The security afforded by this sinking fund should keep the refunding bonds above par."

One of the subjects to be discussed at the citizens' committee meeting today is the county's tax levies for 1933. The county board finance committee last week adopted a resolution pledging its members to keep all county levies, exclusive of bonds and interest, within $12,650,000. The Sargent committee, however, had asked that the county levies be cut to a total of 12 millions, and is reported to be dissatisfied with the $12,650,000 proposal of the county commissioners.

Disclose New Facts on Crash of Illinois Life

Rumors and new developments in the investigation of the Illinois Life Insurance company kept the staff of Gen. Abel Davis, receiver, busy all day yesterday. The receiver's auditor's said they had made the following discoveries:

1. In its sworn report to the state superintendent of insurance last January the insurance corporation controlled by the Stevens family valued junior mortgage bonds of the Stevens hotel, which it held as security for loans, at 100 cents on the dollar, while in the same report the first mortgage bonds of the hotel were valued at only 25 cents on the dollar.

Collateral Is Bolstered.

2. Collateral for loans which might have been questioned by the insurance examiners was bolstered by additional security which actually was the property of the Lincoln Securities company, also controlled by the Stevens family. The books of this concern, which borrowed $1,160,000 from the Illinois Life, were turned over to the receiver's staff yesterday and will be examined today.

3. The Illinois Bankers' Life Assurance compony of Monmouth, Ill., loaned $250,000 to the Lincoln corporation in 1930. Attorney Hugh T. Martin of Chicago until recently was general counsel for the Illinois Life and still is counsel for the Monmouth company. The investigators were seeking to learn whether there was any connection between the two insurance companies, other than the loan to the Stevens controlled Lincoln Securities company, and whether the Illinois Life or its officials gave financial assistance to the Monmouth company.

Denies Any Connection.

Mr. Martin insisted last night that there was no connection between the Illinois Life and the Monmouth company. He said the loan to the Lincoln Securities was made on what appeared to be at that time strong security. Representatives of Gen. Davis said they had found nothing in the books of the Illinois Life showing a connection with the Bankers' Life.

The investigators, in their examination of the Lincoln Securities books, surrendered by Henry P. Chandler, counsel for James W. Stevens and his son, Ernest J., hope to dispell some of the mystery surrounding the failure of the Illinois Life, which had $13,000,000 of assets frozen in obligations of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, both controlled by the Stevens family. The Illinois Life had 70,000 policyholders and $150,000,000 insurance in force.

Valuation of Collateral.

The discrepancy in the valuation of collateral made by the company in its sworn report to the insurance superintendent was discovered by the investigators in examining loans for which the security had been "sweetened."

The report stated that first mortgage bonds of the Stevens hotel were worth only 25 cents on the dollar, while junior mortgage bonds of the same hotel, the underlying securities, were worth four times as much. The investigators said the first mortgage bonds were carried in the newspapers every day, in the New York bond quotations, and that there could be no mistake about their market value, while the junior mortgage bonds were not quoted.

New French Cabinet

Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of war under former Premier Herriot, selects new French cabinet, which political observers say can do nothing about war debts due the United States. Though dominated by Herriot's influence, the new government is supported by the Socialists who forced France to default its Dec. 15 payment. Details on page 2.

President Hoover still striving to get France to pay $19,000,000 as basis for his backing of debt revision and obtaining trade concessions. Details on page 3.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Analysis of war debt statistics discloses Uncle Sam as an international "angel" unrivaled in all history. And the end is not yet. The indications are that his "angel" wings have barely sprouted.

Up to Dec. 15 the United States had made a gift of more than 6 billions of dollars to the European borrowers on a silver platter. On Dec. 15 five defaulting debtors signified their intentions of helping themselves to 4½ billions more out of the 11 billions still due the United States. And six debtors who paid their December installments signified that it was their last payment on the remaining 6½ billions.

Heavier Burden Looms.

American taxpayers are footing the bills for a fifty per cent cancellation of the original amount loaned to Europe, but this burden is nothing compared with what it will be if the 11 billions still owing are repudiated or canceled. The wiping out of the war debts, it is estimated, would add 500 millions a year to the American tax bill.

Prior to the funding the war debts owed to the United States totaled $12,090,700,000, including accrued interest at the 5 per cent rate at which the money was borrowed. They were funded on the basis of an aggregated $11,579,435,885 principal at interest rates varying from 1 per cent to 3.3 per cent for a period of 62 years. In the course of 62 years the debtors were to pay in principal and interest $22,259,040,056.

The present value of the debts is $5,888,100,000, which is the sum which at the rate of interest fixed by the funding settlements would yield 22 billions in 62 years. Uncle Sam's first gift as international angel was the difference between the 12 billion dollar original debt and the present value, which is $6,202,600,000. The percentage of cancellation varied all the way from 29.8 in the cases of Finland and Latvia to 80.2 in the case of Italy.

Record of Cancellation.

The extent of cancellation in the debt fundings settlements is shown in the following table in millions of dollars:

Debtor—	Debt prior to funding.	Present value.	Per cent canceled.

Five Owe 4½ Billions.

The additional 4½ billion dollar loss with which the United States is now threatened is composed of the unpaid remainder of the debts of the five debtors who defaulted Dec. 15 last. These amounts are:

France	$3,863,650,000
Belgium	400,630,000
Poland	177,485,000
Estonia	16,466,612

Total	$4,460,189,372

In addition Greece defaulted in November. With the $31,516,000 debt of Greece added the total potential losses from default of debtors are $4,491,705,372.

Other losses so far sustained are:

Armenia	19,040,107
Total	$336,972,113

Since the funding of the debts the debtors have paid an aggregate of $1,772,933,304 principal and interest. Prior to the funding the payments of principal and interest totaled $953,248,801.

17 HRS. WITHOUT CORONER'S DEATH SETS CITY RECORD

A lull of nearly seventeen hours in which no deaths were reported was recorded at Coroner Walsh's office yesterday. This was said to establish an unusual record in view of the fact that over a period of years the fatalities reported to the coroner average one every hour. From 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon to 9 o'clock last night, a thirty hour period including the seventeen hour lull, only ten fatalities were registered. The lull began at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon when a death was reported which turned out to be from natural causes. Not another death was reported until 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. From 7:30 a. m. yesterday to 9 last night the ten deaths occurred.

FRENCH CABINET CHOSEN; CAN DO NOTHING ON DEBT

"Defaulters" Back Rule of Paul-Boncour.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 18.—France has a government again tonight but not the kind of government which can do anything about the American war debt installment of $19,261,432 on which France stands defaulted as of Dec. 15.

The cabinet crisis came to an end officially when, after two days of political negotiations, Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of war under the fallen premier, Edouard Herriot, went to Elysee palace and submitted to President Albert Lebrun the list of his proposed cabinet. He himself will act as premier and foreign minister.

Dubbed "Christmas Cabinet."

But veteran political observers, analyzing the composition of the government and recognizing the parties which are supporting it are those which voted to "defer" the war debt payment until Uncle Sam "comes across" with what France wants in the way of revision, dubbed the ministry a "Christmas cabinet." They declared it could only live by doing nothing—especially on debts. These observers see little chance of any decisive negotiations being opened with Washington, D. C., until Herriot is ready to return.

A study of Paul-Boncour's government reveals that it is composed mostly of Herriot's ministers, reshuffled as to position, together with the addition of a few old political war horses who habitually come to the fore on such occasions.

Senator Henry Cheron, whom Viscount Snowden, former British chancellor of the exchequer, once termed grotesque and ridiculous, reappears on the political stage as minister of finance for the simple reason that Paul-Boncour was unable to find any one else who would take his job under the present circumstances.

Herriot Influence Dominates.

The Herriot influence completely dominates the cabinet, and Herriot's chief lieutenant, Camille Chautemps, at the key post of minister of the interior, will see to it that the ministers toe the mark. However, the government remains completely under the thumb of the Socialists, whose good will is necessary to give it a majority in parliament.

What was evidently a trial balloon launched by the White House to sound out French opinion on war debts arrived here late tonight in the form of a dispatch from the Washington correspondent of the official French agency, Havas. The dispatch, which was worded very guardedly, said:

"In an effort at conciliation inspired by Secretary of State Stimson, President Hoover is reported envisaging the constitution of a body of independent experts, composed of business men and bankers, which would resembel in its international character the experts' committee whose report led to the Lausanne agreements on German reparations."

In other words, Mr. Hoover is not only planning to re-create the debt commission as purely an American institution but to form a committee of international experts with authority to go into the whole debt question and recommend a solution to congress. According to the Havas dispatch, the object of this committee would be to meet the conditions laid down in the chamber of deputies resolution for an international conference on debts.

In connection with this dispatch, a well informed parliamentary personage, who refused to allow his name to be used, said:

"If Mr. Hoover is planning to organize an international committee of business men and bankers to study the debt question, it is obvious that such a committee would not be qualified to study anything but the capacity of payment of the various debtors and the effects of the debts on their economy.

"Does Not Interest France."

"This does not interest France. We are not alleging an incapacity of payment. The objections raised by France are entirely political, juridical and moral. The reason we postponed payment was because we thought America was not morally entitled to collect it after Mr. Hoover, by his intervention in European affairs, deprived us of sums to which we were entitled from Germany.

"There can be no hope of any understanding until Washington and the American congress and the people realize what our stand is. If such a committee would have as its mission to determine whether Mr. Hoover by direct action caused European debtors of America to miss sums which were owed them in turn by their debtors that would be a different story."

Premises to Deal With U. S.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

PARIS, Dec. 18.—The first words uttered by Joseph Paul-Boncour as he emerged from Elysee palace tonight as the new premier was a message to the American nation that France's new government will negotiate the debt problem in a manner best calculated to promote friendship between France and the United States.

"What can be said to the American people tonight concerning your attitude on the debt problem?" a correspondent asked.

"I authorize you to tell the American people that the new government of France over which I preside will do everything in its power to strengthen the good entente between our two nations," the premier said.

Patenotre Confirms Words.

Raymond Patenotre, the youthful American born undersecretary of state for national economy, who has the same assignment under Paul-Boncour as he had under Edouard Herriot, was standing beside the premier and confirmed his words.

"Remember," said Patenotre, "that if there is a serious economic crisis in the United States there is also one in France, though the world does not seem to realize it.

"France has taken action on the American debt problem, but the American people will understand that action more truly if they keep in mind that the French people are suffering also. They do not complain, but they have great problems before them.

"Remember also that the chamber has not refused to pay the interest on the American debt, but merely voted to postpone payment pending negotiations."

POLAND HOLDS BACK DEBT REPLY UNTIL FRANCE SHOWS HAND

WARSAW, Poland, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Polish reply to the United States' second note regarding war debt payments remained under consideration today, although the answer had been expected Saturday.

Poland desires first to know what the French government decides with reference to the latest suggestion by the United States government that the French debt situation be studied further.

In official circles it is explained it is not ill-will but dire economic necessity which compels Poland to decline to pay the $3,303,000 installment overdue since Dec. 15. Finances are in such bad shape, it was said, the government had to issue a statement denying rumors that civil service pay envelopes were not forthcoming.

ZEALAND SPURNS BRITAIN'S OFFER OF MORATORIUM

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Dec. 18.—The New Zealand government today offered to resume payment on its war debt to Great Britain in view of the fact that Britain was compelled to pay the December installment on her debt to the United States.

Britain had offered to continue postponement of New Zealand's payments as if the Hoover moratorium were still effective, but New Zealand's government declined to take advantage of British generosity. The government has, therefore, informed Britain that if its offer was made on the assumption that the United States would grant postponement, New Zealand would feel bound to resume her own liability.

The government has suggested that Britain "may desire to review the position" and feels convinced that the people of New Zealand will approve its gesture despite their own economic difficulties.

CHINA INDICTS 2; CHARGES BRIBERY BY U. S. COMPANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19.—[Monday.]—Th Chinese national government today brought formal criminal charges in indictment proceedings against Chen Fu-mo, former vice minister of communications, and Marquis Li Kuo-chieh, China's only titled citizen, and former chairman of the China Merchants' Steam Navigation company, China's chief shipping company.

The marquis, a grandson of the late Viceroy Li Hung-chang, famous ambassador, is held in prison, but Chen Fu-mo is believed to have fled to Singapore. The Merchants' Shipping company is privately owned but is under official state management.

The indictment charges that the two officials signed agreements mortgaging the concern, including land and wharves, to the China Realty company, an American firm, in return for a loan of $5,600,000. It is claimed that the realty company made a preliminary advance of about $140,000, which was used to bribe Chen Fu-mo to approve the agreement. The government charges that the realty company intended to lease the properties to the Dollar Steamship company for reorganization under the American flag.

HOOVER STRIVES TO INDUCE PARIS TO PAY ON DEBT

Pledges Best Efforts to Reopen Question.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The next phase of the question of the 11 billion 800 million dollar war debts which Europe owes the United States will be shaped by the outcome of the diplomatic maneuvering now going on between Washington and Paris.

The Hoover administration is endeavoring to induce France to pay its 19 million dollar December installment of interest upon the assurance that the President will do his utmost to initiate a reopening of the debt settlements with a view to their substantial revision.

Hoover's Promises Not Sufficient.

The French government is endeavoring to obtain before paying something more tangible than the debt revision promises of an outgoing American chief executive. These negotiations have occasioned much conferring of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and the French ambassador, M. Paul Claudel, over the week-end and much cabling back and forth between Paris and London of proposals, suggestions, queries and answers.

If it were in the power of the President to fix the American course of action the French payment would be forthcoming without delay. Mr. Hoover is in favor of reopening the debt settlements prayed by France, Great Britain and other debtors. If he could have his way about it the war debt funding commission which made the settlements in the first place would be reconstituted and would address itself to the consideration of the reduction of the obligations of those debtors able to establish proof of impaired capacity to pay.

Would Discuss Concessions.

The President would also bring into the negotiations considerations of trade and other concessions which might be asked of the debtors in exchange for a scaling down of the debts.

To the great dismay of the debtors, however, Mr. Hoover is unable to make good his promises of a reopening of the debt settlements which at various times in the last year and a half he has made to them. His hands are tied by congress which is overwhelmingly opposed to the reduction of the debts and even to a review of the settlements.

Under the circumstances the extent of the assurances the Hoover administration has been offering Paris for immediate payment of the December installment is that the French government can discuss its case for revision with the state department and that the President can lay the pleas of the debtors before congress in a special message.

Works on Debt Message.

Mr. Hoover is understood to have completed the rough draft of a message on the debts which may go to congress this week. The President is still of the opinion that congress ought to authorize creation of a commission to negotiate with Europe on debt revision, disarmament, trade concessions and the subjects to be dealt with in the world economic conference next spring.

He realizes, however, that even if such a course of action were initiated now no more than a beginning could be made before the advent of the Roosevelt administration which will determine the American policy in all these matters.

The President finds himself on the defensive with regard to the assurances the debtors say he gave them that the debt settlements would be reopened if the European powers reduced German reparations. The first sign of any such understanding came out of the Hoover-Laval conference in the fall of 1931. The joint communique issued by the President and Premier Laval hinted at a readjustment of debt payments limited to the period of the depression.

Claim Agreement on Debts.

The debtors, however, either believed or professed to believe that Mr. Hoover had given oral assurances of a debt revision of a more permanent nature extending beyond the period of the depression.

They proceeded at the Lausanne conference to reduce German reparations to a basis of ten cents on the dollar contingent upon a commensurate reduction permanently of their debts to the United States. Then they pointed out that they had made good their promises and called on Mr. Hoover to make good his.

In his speech in the commons last week Neville Chamberlain, British minister of the exchequer, said the British ambassador in Washington had received assurances from the Hoover administration that reduction of German reparations would be the best way to approach a reduction of the debts owed the United States.

Understanding with Laval.

In this connection it is recalled that a White House spokesman the night the Hoover-Laval conference was concluded gave out the information that when M. Laval asked what America would do if Europe reduced German reparations the President replied that America will do her part. The spokesman did not limit such assurance to a readjustment of the debt payments covering merely the period of the depression.

Both the British and the French notes reminded the President of these promises, which in none of the subsequent correspondence has he denied that he gave. The closest he came to a denial was the citation of a British treasury statement that the Lausanne conferees were seeking "European solution of reparations without involving the United States in the discussion."

As a denial, of course, this was not to the point. The question was not whether America was participating in the Lausanne discussion but whether the President had given certain promises of which the Lausanne conference was the outcome.

FOUR INJURED IN BLAST AND FIRE NEAR DUNNING

Two fire department officers were injured and two young women were cut by glass in an explosion and fire which destroyed an old frame business structure at 6401-05 Irving Park boulevard last night. A number of inmates of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane, which is close by, were aroused.

The explosion was caused by a defective boiler, investigators said. It blew out windows in the drug store of J. M. Caffarello and the restaurant of John Condias, owners of the building. A dozen patrons in both places were driven out and two were cut about the legs by flying glass. They were Miss Florence Benedetto, 19 years old, of 1527 North Lockwood avenue, and Miss Rose De Cola, 20, of 1118 North Spaulding avenue.

The fire spread rapidly and a 2-11 alarm was sounded. Capt. Fred Retke of engine 89 fell through a manhole and was taken to the Swedish Covenant hospital suffering from leg injuries. Later Chief John O'Malley of the 22d battalion was cut by glass. In the offices of Dr. H. L. Rose firemen found a Great Dane watchdog burned to death. Damage was estimated at $7,000 by Division Marshal John Touhey.

Uncle Sam Sees Self Now "Sucker for a Fast Blonde"

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The beautiful friendship between the United States and France seems to have had a cash value of $19,000,000, the equivalent of the gate receipts of a few dozen selected intercollegiate football games.

Due to the nonpayment of this amount the great American crush on La Belle France is now definitely off and the time is not far distant when statesmen will be hopping out into the aisles to call La Belle France a deadbeat, a welcher and an ingrate.

We have in the person of the U. S. A. at this time a gaudy example of the party who begins to realize that he has been a sucker for a fast blonde and who is very, very much annoyed at the blonde and himself as well. All the tender, baby talk speeches, resolutions and editorials which were exchanged during the crush will be revoked and already the discovery is being made by some of the best minds that the great love was never anything more than a dizzy infatuation of a gilded sophomore for a designing female who knew her way around.

Restraint Is Exercised.

A certain restraint is being exercised up to this time in the hope that further appeals to the tender nature of the lady will induce her to pay a little bit, but I do not believe there is a statesman in Washington who really has any serious idea that France will ever pay this country her whole owings.

The main hope is to stall off the time when France will declare she doesn't owe the money at all because when France repudiates the debt then some form of repudiation will have to be adopted in the United States, too, and the result of that is something that nobody wishes to anticipate. It is a very morbid line of thought.

It seems impossible that a race of people could have changed their character entirely in the brief time since 1917. If France is now the sort of nation which you are soon going to hear she is, then she was the same sort of nation when it was unlawful to ask for sauerkraut in this country. Persons who took the responsibility for creating the illusion in those days may now be induced to admit that they could have argued just as well for the other side of the proposition.

Recall Decision on War.

It is startling to hear it said now in Washington, D. C., of all places that this country had just as much legal reason to go to war against France as for her and that the American cause in the riot was a deliberate creation of propaganda to which the journalism of the U. S. A., claiming to be the most ethical, conscientous and independent journalism on earth lent all its force and influence.

The historical discovery is being made, too, that France never rendered any service to this nation, military or otherwise, out of pure love for the American republic, but always had what the boys in the prize fight racket would call an angle of her own. Such historical facts existed fifteen years ago of course, and were known to the great minds of the lineup as it then existed, but they were not given any emphasis and any one who had had the temerity to utter any of them, even with the book in his hand to prove it, would have been slapped down with the utmost severity.

It is very foolish to try to tell a gilded youth that his girl is not the divine creature that he thinks she is when he has that goofy look of acute love glazing his eyes and his reason, and this is the excuse of those who had the responsibility of keeping the record straight but just didn't bother to do because it seemed so impossible.

They Accuse Themselves.

So the angrier the statesmen grow—and the journalists, too—in their exasperation over the default of the $19,000,000 chit, which wouldn't pay New York's graft account for a year, the more bitterly they accuse the French nation with historical digs, the more do they accuse themselves of defaulting their leadership.

O, well, what did the fellow say? We live and learn and there is no man who doesn't at some stage of his career suffer from a conviction that he has made a complete chump of himself, which is substantially what the statesmen speaking for the U. S. A. will admit when they finally abandon hope of collecting a bum debt from a prosperous but highly sophisticated gal who just wanted to borrow the money, cherie, until her alimony came.

May Inspire New Motto.

There were parties who wished to warn the country back in those days but the public opinion said, "By God, sir, you are speaking of my fiancee," and they were sorry they ever mentioned the subject. If the country doesn't go absolutely broke from international repudiation when France finally repudiates outright, as she eventually will, the lesson will leave a dark, sophisticated look in the clear, juvenile eyes of the U. S. A. and inspire a new motto for the depreciated currency: "My country, in her intercourse with the nations, may she never give a sucker an even break."

254 'PARADE' AT POLICE SHOWUP; 50 WOMEN HELD

The police cleanup of beer flats and gambling houses, ordered by Mayor Cermak, gave the detective bureau the largest showup in more than a year yesterday. Victims of various crimes watched 254 prisoners on parade.

Routine arrests contributed 86 of the showup prisoners. The remainder were picked up in raids on beer flats and other resorts. Most of them had minor police records, but there was not a well known hoodlum in the lot.

Police raided 23 places Saturday night and early yesterday. They made 144 arrests, which, with the 375 others seized since last Tuesday, brought the total of arrests in the drive to 522. The raids continued during last night and early this morning.

There were 50 women prisoners at the detective bureau last night, the largest number in many months. Aside from keepers and inmates of disorderly houses, whose arrests are a week-end routine, the women were mostly Christmas shoplifters.

VOTE BY HOUSE ON 3.2 BEER SET FOR THIS WEEK

Wets of Both Parties Are Rallying Forces.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Prohibition history will be made in the house of representatives this week. That is the opinion of ranking members, both Democratic and Republican.

For the first time since national prohibition was declared in effect, a beer bill will come to a vote in the house under circumstances indicating it has a real chance of passage. Democratic leaders, after their latest survey of strength today, predicted passage of the Collier 3.2 per cent beer bill on or before Thursday.

A majority vote would send the Collier bill over the first major legislative hurdle to be cleared before real beer can be manufactured and sold legally. Before the Volstead act can be modified legislation legalizing beer must be approved by the senate and signed by President Hoover. Even then such a bill would face, before the Supreme court, a last ditch fight at the hands of the professional prohibitionists.

Wet Leaders Confident.

Democratic and Republican wet leaders today rallied their forces, believing victory is in their grasp. Following an all day canvass, Republican wet spokesmen said their lines still held in the face of a determined drive by the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., and allied professional dry organizations. Members are being told, wet leaders said, that the necessary votes to pass the Collier bill must be forthcoming or that will end the move to modify the Volstead act at this session.

For the Democrats, the vote on the Collier bill means a test as to whether the party is to fulfill its campaign pledge for beer pending repeal of the 18th amendment. For the Republicans the vote means a chance to start the ball rolling toward removal of national prohibition from the statute books, prior to inauguration of the new Democratic administration on March 4.

On the eve of a decisive vote on beer legislation the big questions were these:

1. Would President Elect Roosevelt and Speaker Garner, his running mate, go to bat for the beer bill as actively as in the Democratic fight to get sufficient votes to put over the repeal motion on the first day of the session?

2. Will the Democratic leaders be able to halt the threatened defection of southern drys who now are beginning to waver under the threat of the Anti-Saloon league whip?

3. What attitude will President Hoover take and will he use indirect pressure to prevent passage of the beer bill?

Roosevelt May Wait.

One of the Democratic wet leaders said he did not believe that Gov. Roosevelt would take any part in the beer fight at the short session. A Republican wet, who spent part of the day interviewing his colleagues, said he had seen no evidence that the Democratic high command was working as hard for passage of the beer bill as they had for repeal.

"Under any circumstances vigorous moves to amend the Collier bill will be forthcoming when it reaches the floor. There was more than a possibility that amendments to the measure might reduce its present alcoholic content from 3.2 per cent by weight to 2.75 by weight. Of other amendments to be offered, one would place restrictions on the sale of beer and the other boost the tax from $5 a barrel to $6 or $7.50.

Representative William E. Hull [Rep., Ill.] said tonight that a private canvass indicated at least 104 Republicans would vote for the Collier bill. "If the Democrats come through as they should and take steps to fill their platform pledges, the bill would be approved without a doubt," he added. "I have noticed that some of the southern Democratic drys are threatening to get out of line."

See Help to Business.

Evidence placed before the house ways and means committee showing that enactment of beer legislation would start a new 400 million dollar private construction and rehabilitation program is certain to play a major part in the debate.

U. S. EXCISE TAX RECEIPTS GROW; UNDER ESTIMATE

Collections in November Above Last Year.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Despite a gain in collections of federal excise taxes during November, the receipts from this source still are running well behind the estimates prepared at the time the Revenue Act of 1932 was passed.

For November, according to figures released today by the internal revenue bureau, $26,860,000 in excise taxes were received. The average for the month, under the estimates, should have been $37,500,000, since the treasury originally calculated that $450,500,000 would be collected in the entire fiscal year.

Total miscellaneous internal revenue for November, amounting to $71,156,314, showed a decline from the month before, although the figure increased $31,603,697 over November, 1931.

Lowest in July.

For the previous months of the fiscal year 1933, the collections were: October, $76,787,314; September, $74,278,048; August, $64,857,253, and July, $44,220,326.

The total collection of internal revenue during November, 1932, was $85,484,476, an increase of $26,386,119 over November, 1931.

The increase of miscellaneous internal revenue in November over the corresponding month last year was offset by a decline of $5,217,577 in income taxes which amounted to $14,328,161.

For the first five months of the fiscal year 1933 internal revenue collections totaled $553,442,437, a decrease of $53,156,279 as compared with the corresponding period last year.

Income Taxes Decrease.

Income taxes totaled $202,134,132, a decrease of $156,650,831, while miscellaneous internal revenue of $331,308,304 showed a gain of $109,494,552. Corporation taxes yielded the government $124,476,727 for the five months, a decrease of $98,527,484 as compared with the corresponding months last year, while individual income taxes were $77,657,404, a drop of $58,123,347.

Tobacco taxes, which proved the the best single source of revenue, amounted to $165,620,957 in the five month period, a reduction of $10,981,380. Cigaret taxes yielded $133,112,220, a drop of $7,055,786; cigar taxes $5,538,773, a decline of $1,659,389; manufactured tobacco $23,849,478, a cut of $1,593,936, and snuff $2,537,543, a reduction of $383,812.

Estate Receipts Drop.

The yield from the estate tax was $10,742,720 for the five months, a decrease of $14,997,898. Collections from distilled spirits amounted to $2,957,429, a drop of $884,729. From stamp taxes were collected $25,905,105, a gain of $10,386,195 in the five months; manufacturers' excise taxes $92,180,041, a net gain; and from miscellaneous taxes $29,696,649, a gain of $28,662,630.

Baby Pauline Fitzharris, who came into the world eight weeks ago through a Caesarian operation performed immediately after the death of her mother, was taken home yesterday by her father from the West Suburban hospital. The baby weighed only three pounds two ounces at birth and was kept in an incubator until she attained a normal size. She now weighs six pounds, is in good health, and will grow up a normal child, according to Dr. Chester W. Trowbridge, who performed the operation that saved her life.

As the infant was placed in the arms of her father, J. A. Fitzharris of 4823 Cortez avenue, for the trip home, the faces of nurses at the hospital grew doleful. The baby, who had become a pet of the entire staff, was garbed in a miniature student nurse's uniform, made by Miss Dorothy Tollar for "Patsy," as the child was called in the hospital. Many other tiny garments designed and made by the nurses comprised a sizable wardrobe which Pauline will wear. The child was named for her mother.

BEER DENOUNCED AS A COMPETITOR OF U. S. INDUSTRY

An open letter addressed to President Hoover and other officials, in which it is asserted that the legalization of beer will reestablish industry's most dangerous competitor, was made public yesterday by the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation. The letter is signed by Richard H. Scott, president of the foundation, and head of the Reo Motor Car company at Lansing, Mich.

The letter cites many figures comparing the industrial and farm conditions before and after the enactment of the dry laws, and states that legitimate industry and the everyday worker have benefited because of prohibition. Mr. Scott declares that beer constituted 90 per cent of the total of the legalized liquor traffic before 1919. He also asserts that the beer now sought for re-legalizing is both potently and essentially an intoxicating beverage.

"In my opinion," concludes Mr. Scott, "the 18th amendment should be supported by American industry as a reasonable industrial safeguard."

MUSICIANS' LEADER SEES MORE JOBS WITH BEER, WINE

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Joseph N. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians, said in a letter to Speaker John N. Garner, made public here today, that musical employment in hotels and other dining places would be "more than doubled" by the restoration of wine and beer sales in those places.

"The sale of beer and light wines in restaurants, hotels, cafés, and gardens," the letter said, "would immediately have the result of lowering the consumption of hard liquor and make for true temperance. People would again enjoy music and other innocent amusement in such places. Most speakeasies would soon be out of commission and violation of the law would be curbed."

GANGS CUT BEER PRICE IN BID FOR LOST PATRONAGE

Steins Now 15 Cents Except in Loop District.

The price of gang beer is coming down in Chicago. Speakeasy customers throughout the west side and in scattered districts elsewhere in the city will be able today to buy a stein of beer for 15 cents, or a short glass for a dime.

The downward price movement has been in progress for several months. It was given new impetus yesterday when speakeasies in the Austin and neighboring districts which buy their beer from the gang headed by William [Klondike] O'Donnell were informed that, beginning today, they will be charged $25 instead of $55 or $50 a barrel.

Bid for Lost Patronage.

George [Butch] Vogel, who operates in the Lawndale district, is reported to have cut his price to $30 a barrel, and George Druggan, brother of the notorious Terry, has been selling his beer at that price in the old valley district, for several weeks. Similar prices have prevailed for several months in the Brighton Park district, the Hudson avenue district, and some of the northwest suburbs, and in the stockyards area, where Paddy Sullivan and Nick Kramer operate with advice and assistance of Joe Saltis.

The beer gangsters, it is said, hope the price reduction will bring back some of the patronage they have lost because of the depression. Also they are trying to turn Mayor Cermak's drive against beer flats to their own profit. Home brew sells in the beer flats for 15 cents a stein. The gang brewers are trying to entice beer flat patrons into the speakeasies by offering a superior brew at the same price.

Price Stays Up in Loop.

The beer department of the old Capone syndicate, now run by Joe Fusco, has refused to join in the price cut. Syndicate beer still costs loop speakeasies $55 a barrel, and goes to patrons at 25 cents a stein. The same price prevails on the near north side, where Dominick [Libby] Nuccio is sales manager for a gang allied with Fusco and his associates.

Wage scales in the beer business have dropped as far as those in any legitimate activity. Formerly the driver of a beer truck got $105 a week and had an assistant who got $60 a week. Now the driver has no helper and works seven days a week for $25.

The wages of the brewmasters who supervise the gang breweries have dropped even more. They were paid $1.15 a barrel in boom times, and with breweries turning out as high as 1,000 barrels a week, they frequently earned $50,000 a year. Joe Saltis employed a brewmaster who, after taking some courses in brewing schools, is said to have gone to Canada and obtained a legitimate job at his trade. Nowadays, however, expert brewmasters are working for from $75 to $100 a week.

HOBO QUIZZED ON LINDBERGH KIDNAPING CASE

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—A self-styled hobo, who was reported to have remarked three months ago that he was near the scene of the Lindbergh kidnaping, was questioned for more than an hour by a New Jersey state trooper tonight and then released.

The trooper, Lew Bornman, said he was convinced that the hobo, William Stoltz, 35, knew nothing whatever about the case.

Three months ago local lodging houses were given a description of Stoltz and asked to report to police if he showed up. Saturday night the Municipal Lodging house notified headquarters and Stoltz was detained for questioning.

ROOSEVELT WILL BALANCE BUDGET OF STATE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—The New York state budget problem will be the last to occupy the attention of Franklin D. Roosevelt as governor of New York prior to his retirement from that office on Jan. 1, when he will go into nominal retirement pending his inauguration as President on March 4.

During recent months Mark Graves director of the budget of New York state, has been striving with all state department heads to plan economies by which the next budget may be reduced by a minimum figure of at least $50,000,000.

Tomorrow morning the governor will be at his desk in the Albany capitol building, ready to plunge into the last analysis of the figures compiled by Mr. Graves, and his associates declare the governor to be prepared to slash even more than his budget director is willing to if it is necessary in the procuring of a balanced budget. The state is now in the red some $90,000,000.

CONGREGATION OF K. A. M. TEMPLE MARKS 85TH YEAR

The congregation of K. A. M. temple, 50th street and Drexel boulevard, held its annual dinner last evening at the Standard club, commemorating the 70th birthday of Dr. Tobias Schanfarber, 5044 Drexel boulevard, rabbi emeritus, and the 85th anniversary of the organization of the congregation.

Early Jewish settlers in Chicago maintained a cemetery in what is now part of Lincoln park from 1845 until 1856. In 1856 the park area was incorporated in the city and the cemetery was abandoned. The same group of Jews organized the first Chicago congregation of their faith in 1847 and obtained a charter early in 1848 under the name of Kehilath Anshe Maarev [Congregation of the Men of the West].

The congregation first held services in an upper story of a frame building at Lake and Wells street. In 1849 it erected a frame synagogue on Clark street between Quincy and Adams streets. In 1855 the congregation moved to a synagogue at Adams and Wells streets, and in 1865 to one at Wabash avenue and Peck court which was destroyed in the Chicago fire. The congregation moved to its south side temple late in the last century.

Receiver's Auditors Find Errors in Report.

telephone at Springfield last night and asked whether he knew such a valuation was made in the company's report.

Needs His Books.

"I don't know," he said. "I haven't the books with me. I'll find out tomorrow."

He was asked whether such a valuation would not seem irregular and attract his attention at the time of filing.

"I don't know a thing about it because I haven't the books," he replied.

The discovery that collateral for loans had been bolstered brought a new corporate body into the picture, the Central Illinois Securities company, an investment trust. The investigators found that six loans made by the Illinois Life carried additional collateral consisting of securities of the Central Illinois company and that these securities, except in one instance, had been issued to the Lincoln corporation which indorsed them. Two of the six borrowers in this deal, who are employés of the insurance company, declared they had never heard of the Central Illinois company nor owned any stock in it.

Bolster Collateral.

The receiver's auditors expressed the opinion that officials of the life insurance company, desirous of bolstering their collateral showing for the report to the state superintendent of insurance, borrowed the Central Illinois units from the Lincoln corporation.

One of the loans was to Miss Florence Daugherty, who borrowed $1,000 to purchase a first mortgage bond of the Stevens hotel. In addition to carrying the bond on the books as collateral for this loan, five units of Central Illinois stock, valued at $101.87, were listed as security. Miss Daugherty said she had never heard of the Central Illinois corporation.

T. M. Widick, another employé of the insurance company, is listed as owing $2,000, for which three Hotel La Salle first mortgage bonds, with a market value of $1,350, and forty-five units of Central Illinois, with a market value of $916.87, were carried as security.

Lincoln Company Borrows.

One of the six loans on which Central Illinois units were carried as security was made to the Lincoln corporation on Oct. 21, 1929, just before the stock market crash. Three thousand shares are listed as collateral. The other loans made by the Illinois Life were to John W. Dalton, treasurer of the Stevens hotel; Elizabeth J. Stookey, wife of Bert J. Stookey, nephew of James W. Stevens and secretary-treasurer of the Illinois Life, and Joseph E. Otis. In Mr. Otis' case, however, the auditors found that the shares of Central Illinois, 515 of them, had been issued to him and not to the Lincoln corporation.

Both state and federal investigations into the tangled affairs of the insurance company are to get under way today. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney will appoint Prof. James Cherry, De Paul university law instructor, as special counsel for the investigation, if the latter will accept. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green has already ordered an investigation.

BANDITS HOLD UP POSTAL STATION IN DRUG STORE

More than $1,200 in United States postoffice funds were stolen last evening by two young bandits in a robbery in John J. Olk's drug store and sub postal station at 6974 Fullerton avenue.

Olk and Henry Salpeter, 2732 North Sawyer avenue, a customer, were in the place when the robbers entered. They forced the two to lie on the floor. Interrupted by the entrance of another patron, Lawrence Callahan of 2235 North Sawyer avenue, they forced him to lie on the floor with the others.

The gunmen then went to the safe where they took $1,242 in government money and $120 in stamps. They then robbed Olk of $123. Neither of the customers was robbed. Federal officials were notified and, with Sergt. John Sloan of the Cragin station, began an investigation.

THE TAX 'JUNGLE' IS A HEADACHE TO THESE 29 CLERKS

Overlapping Governments Are Their Despair.

In the tax extension department of County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer 29 clerks are engaged in exploring the county's governmental "jungle" to assure each of 438 taxing agencies its proper amount of revenue. Head Clerk Frank L. Pasdeloup yesterday pointed to the department as a laboratory for the study of overlapping and duplicating governments.

"No one can watch the work of tax extension without being struck by the need for reorganization," he said. "Tens upon tens of thousands of computations are necessitated by the number of small taxing bodies which might easily be consolidated without impairment of their functions."

What Tax Extension Is.

The work of tax extension consists of determining what tax rate will return to each local government the amount of revenue anticipated in its tax levy ordinances. This is computed from the assessed value of the property under the jurisdiction of each government and the amount of the tax levy. The rates of the county and forest preserves are first determined because they apply to all the property in the county. Then comes the sanitary district. Extension of city and city school taxes follows.

After these extensions the 29 clerks enter a maze which leaves them with a headache at the conclusion of each day's work. The boundaries of every other taxing body in the county must be measured and their tax rates determined. Rates range from tenths of a mill to dollars.

201 School Districts.

There are 181 elementary school districts, 19 high school districts, and one nonhigh school district in the county outside of the city. The assessed value of the property in each of these 201 districts must be totaled to the last lot. There are numerous villages, townships, park districts, mosquito abatement districts and other taxing bodies. None of these have the same boundaries and the assessed value of their property must be totaled individually.

"All taxable property must be measured for each taxing body," Head Clerk Pasdeloup said. "The clerks must determine for each body the total of real estate, personal property, and railroad taxes. The extension of railroad taxes alone is almost a superhuman task. Every government body on a right of way is given a share of the tax fixed to decimal points."

The work of extension is completed by the department in about 25 days. Without the records of the department for the guidance of its trained clerks the task would keep ten times 29 employes busy for a year, the head clerk declared.

"A study of the work of the department would convince any one of the need for governmental change in the direction of greater simplicity and better coordination," said Mr. Pasdeloup. "Such change will bring increased efficiency with a reduction of cost to the taxpayer."

Elevated Highway Around Manhattan Proposed

A plan for an elevated highway around Manhattan, N. Y., a distance of thirty miles, will be submitted soon to the city by the Architectural league. The project would cost $90,000,000 and would operate as a toll highway. This is a drawing of the highway as it would appear around Battery park. [Acme Photo.]

DUCE PREDICTS 100,000 BY 1935 ON 'MADE' LAND

ROME, Dec. 18.—(AP)—By 1935 more than 100,000 persons, Premier Mussolini said today, are expected to populate the reclaimed miles of swamp land in the middle of which Littoria, a city of Fascist creation, will rise. Under the facist program of agricultural development, a third great agricultural community, known as Pontinia, will be inaugurated in 1935. The first was Mussolinia in Sardina.

The "city" of Littoria is now only a huge field, plotted with a plow in emulation of Romulus' methods of digging the boundaries of Rome. Soon, however, streets, squares, and buildings will spring into being, and the city will be made a model center of a prosperous farming region. Rome will be less than two hours away by train.

The city was mapped out after years of labor sponsored by the National War Veterans association, whose families will settle on the reclaimed land.

Married 63 Years and Never Had a Quarrel

COURT STUDIES ATTORNEY'S TAX COLLECTING DEAL

County Board to Quiz Rival Lawyers Today.

The contract under which Attorney Edward M. Winston was employed by the county commissioners to collect delinquent taxes is under examination by County Judge Jarecki, who is conducting an investigation into charges that the lawyer compromised tax bills of several property owners whom he sued in the Circuit and Superior courts. The contract also will be under the scrutiny of the county board today.

Passed by the votes of ten county commissioners after being approved by State's Attorney Swanson, the contract in its original form provided that Attorney Henry M. Ashton might take steps to force the collection of all taxes and penalties on property which had been forfeited to the state for two years. Last summer, however, the state Supreme court ordered Attorney Ashton barred from practice for one year and the commissioners passed a resolution which allowed Attorney Winston to assume the contract on the same terms.

Penalties to Pay Fees.

The document ordered that payment for his services should be made to Winston only from the penalties he collected. The amount of the payment, however, was fixed by a paragraph which allowed him to collect varying percentages of the total amounts of taxes and penalties he forced into the coffers of the county. These percentages and the conditions under which they were to be collected were:

1. From collection of taxes and one year's penalties, 15 per cent.
2. From collection of taxes and two year's penalties, 20 per cent.
3. From collection of taxes and penalties in excess of two years, 25 per cent.
4. From collections in excess of $150,000 in delinquent taxes and penalties paid voluntarily during any 6 month period of the contract through the state's attorney's office, 5 per cent.

This same paragraph provided that computation as contemplated in the case of voluntary payments must exclude all sums "realized from suits or foreclosures instituted by the state's attorney or the contract holder."

Two Seek New Contract.

The contract was executed to begin on May 16, 1931 and expired on last Nov. 30. Attorney Winston has sought to have the contract renewed and one of his former assistants, Attorney Ralph O. Butz, is seeking to draw a similar contract with the board for himself. It was the charges and counter charges of tax adjusting made by the two attorneys which caused the commissioners to begin their own investigation of the assertions.

In connection with the board's quiz the commissioners have ordered Winston to bring records of every case he had instituted before a committee meeting today. Winston has promised to do so and prove his assertions that only in cases handled by Attorney Butz were adjustments made, and these arrangements took place without his knowledge. Attorney Butz has appeared before Judge Jarecki and the board and charged that his former employer knew all about the adjustments.

CHARGE BRITAIN ABUSES MANDATE IN EAST AFRICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DURBAN, South Africa, Dec. 18.—A "Buy British" movement surreptitiously aimed at the United States in the East African territories of Tanganyika, Kenya, and Uganda, lays Great Britain open to charges of violating the terms of their mandate over Tanganyika granted by the league of nations, it is maintained here.

The movement to buy British goods to the exclusion of other countries' products has spurted of late as the result of impetus given by the granting of imperial trade preferences under the Ottawa agreements.

Kenya, Uganda, and Tanganyika, where the campaign is intense, rank the most heavily motorized regions in the world in proportion to their white population. For instance Nairobi, the capital of Kenya, registers nearly 6,000 automobiles to 4,000 white inhabitants. The standard of living is also comparatively high on the farms and consequently a lively demand exists for manufactured products of foreign nations.

A League Violation?

With the "Buy British" drive on, purchases from the United States are destined to suffer a precipitate drop, for although that nation is not mentioned specifically in the official propaganda, most of the discrimination is by implication, aimed in that direction.

Upon this point hangs the violation of the league's mandate. Tanganyika happens to be a mandated territory, one of the former German colonies which Britain pounced upon at Versailles after the war. Terms of the mandate, under which Britain administers the territory, stipulate adherence to the principle of the open door in trade relations with other nations. Tanganyika, however, is bound by a customs union with Kenya and Uganda. It is held, therefore, that none of the three can legally discriminate against American goods under the present terms of the league mandate.

Three in One for Britain.

Undisturbed by these contentions, leaders in these three territories are now pushing a campaign for amalgamation into one great imperial possession which would include the protected sultanate of Zanzibar, source of the world's clove supply. If their efforts succeed, it would likely mean the inauguration of another lucrative white man's land in Africa—for the British especially if the movement continues.

British settlers are already entering Kenya in large numbers, although the colony lies on the equator. Railroad and road construction progresses daily. Coffee, sisal, and sea island cotton are available on a sizeable scale for export.

The British method of dealing with the native population in the minor African colonies also has proved beneficial in developing them for the white man. Exclusive of Egypt and the Union of South Africa, there are about 20,000,000 natives to 80,000 white settlers, yet generally speaking, the former are not rebellious or prone to present annoying demands for social equality.

Not Too Much Education.

They are dissuaded from learning English and urged to acquire what little education they need in their native tongues. This tends to make the natives more willing to keep to themselves, live on their tribal reservations and avoid Caucasian towns.

Firearms and liquor are kept from their possession. Traveling from one colony to another is restricted. Native agriculture is encouraged and in some regions native farmers have attained a high level of well being.

TO PRACTICE LAW

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Anna L. Sheridan of 5028 North Monticello avenue, a grandmother, is looking ahead a year and a half to the time when she will be pensioned as a policewoman and can begin the practice of law, her life's ambition. For eighteen and a half years Mrs. Sheridan has served the police department, counseling women who have been called to an accounting with the law.

Mrs. Sheridan was admitted to the bar in 1926. In the last few weeks she has been assigned to the Women's court, recently inaugurated, acting as investigator for Judge Joseph A. Graber. The other policewomen assigned to the court are Mrs. Anna Guthardt, Mrs. Mary Call, and Mrs. Mollie Oliver.

Mrs. Sheridan is one of thirteen attorneys out of the 6,000 members of the police force, records of the department show.

Indians Dying of Plague in Peru; Fear Yellow Fever

LIMA, Peru, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The newspaper El Comercio said today an epidemic in the Lares valley was causing numerous deaths among Indian farmers. It was reported 300 had died on one estate, and the newspaper feared the plague might be yellow fever. The authorities are rushing medical supplies to the area.

AMY JOHNSON LANDS IN LONDON; BREAKS RECORD

Flies from Cape Town in Seven Days Seven Hours.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Holding two of the most important air records in the British empire, Amy Johnson, British air woman, landed at Croydon airdrome from Paris at 12:05 p. m. today. She had completed her 6,200 mile flight from Cape Town, South Africa, in a few hours more than seven days, thus hanging up new records going and coming.

Her approximate time for the Cape Town-London flight was seven days, seven hours, beating the previous record established two years ago by the duchess of Bedford and Capt. C. D. Barnard by about two days.

Breaks Husband's Record.

The wife of Capt. J. A. Mollison broke her husband's record on the flight south, landing at Cape Town in less than five days. Amy's first record breaking achievement was a solo flight to India two and one-half years ago. In the same year she flew alone to Australia.

The airdrome was packed for the air woman's reception. Crowds streamed into Croydon as soon as it was reported she had left Paris. A special platform was built in order that greetings might be extended to her by her husband, parents and a number of officials. F. G. L. Bertram, deputy director of civil aviation, representing Lord Londonderry, secretary of state for air, brought a message of congratulation from King George.

Upon landing, the flyer, sitting with a bouquet of roses in the cockpit, taxied the plane to the platform and was greeted by her family.

Husband Greets Her.

"Hello, Amy, I'm so proud of you," was the greeting of her famous flying husband.

"Thanks, Jim. I'm so pleased for your sake and for mine," the British air heroine replied, smiling broadly.

Throughout the route from the airport to her hotel the streets were lined with cheering thousands. Capt. Mollison and his wife fought their way through a throng outside their hotel.

Amy hopped from Paris to London in a little less than two hours. She was aided by strong tail winds.

Delayed by Storms.

Mrs. Mollison left Cape Town at dawn Dec. 11, hoping to make a speedy flight to England, but bad weather and fogs caused delays. Because of the strain she had undergone in Africa and the storm she bucked on the hop from Oran, Algeria, to Paris, she decided it was best to remain in the French capital Saturday night.

"I am sorry I did not break the record by nearly as much as I had hoped," she said. "However, I have learned several things which I hope will be of benefit to aviation. The flight that I wanted most to make is to America, but there is no immediate prospect of it."

PIONEER WILL OBSERVE 97TH BIRTHDAY TODAY

Abraham Greenburg today will celebrate his 97th birthday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Mildred Isaacs, with whom he lives at 815 Drexel square. Mr. Greenburg is healthy and active. He has been a Chicago resident for 69 years.

An avid newspaper reader—his eyesight is perfect—and a radio fan, Mr. Greenburg keeps well informed on current events and is particularly interested in the agitation for repeal of the 18th amendment.

"I favor the return of real beer and repeal of the amendment," he said. "I believe the present congress is wet, and as far as I am concerned the wetter it is the better."

Born in Amsterdam, Mr. Greenburg was taken to London when a boy of 16. There he married Jane Corper in 1863 and came to Chicago the same year. His wife died a year ago, two weeks before they were to celebrate their 68th wedding anniversary. Of their eight children, five sons and one daughter are living.

FILIPINOS FLAY FREEDOM BILL AS TYRANNICAL

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MANILA, P. I., Dec. 18.—Filipinos and Americans alike united here today in condemning the Hawes-Cutting Philippine independence bill, passed by the United States senate yesterday, which provides freedom for the islands after 12 years and limits exports and immigration in the interim.

Manuel Quezon, president of the insular senate, declared that the present status of the islands is far better than it would be under the proposed terms, while other legislators, following his lead, asserted that the provisions are outrageous, unjust, and tyrannical.

Sees Sugar Industry Hit.

Representatives of Negros, the chief sugar province, said that the limitations on sugar exports to the United States would ruin the industry and that all building of centrals would stop forthwith.

Maximo Kalaw, outstanding oppositionist, and Francisco Varona, majority floor leader of the house, united in condemnation of the limitation both of products and immigration.

Other members of the lower house said that if the insular legislature had any chance to pass on the bill it would reject it.

Bill Called "Stupid."

John R. Wilson, secretary of the American chamber of commerce, declared that "stupid and iniquitous" legislation would undoubtedly kill the industry of the islands and remove one of America's best customers.

Kenneth Day, head of a refining company, said the terms would mean the closing of the copra and cocoanut oil industries.

The only hope expressed by Filipinos is that the conference with the house may remove some of the obnoxious features of the bill, while Americans hold out the hope of a presidential veto.

SURVEY REVEALS BRITAIN IN GRIP OF BIG TAX OCTOPUS

Find Millions Squandered by State Subsidies.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 18.—Savings running into many millions of dollars are recommended in reports of two governmental economy committees which since June have been investigating spendthrift legislation in Great Britain.

In some cases the committees pointed out that a definite economy of 5 or 10 million dollars could be effected in a particular department by one specific action. In other instances they found that public finances had gotten beyond the reach of plain accountancy.

The committees were set up to deal with local expenditures only. But the national exchequer aids boroughs and counties with special grants, so that the entire country is affected. One committee dealt with England and Wales, the other with Scotland.

Ask Check on Spending Power.

The first began its report with the assertion that post war legislation has steadily conferred more and bigger powers upon local authorities, giving them fresh prerogatives and new duties. It calls for a halt in such law making, for new authority invested in local administrators has resulted in new demands for money from the taxpayer.

The committee states that within three years expenditure of money drawn from local taxation and national grants could be reduced by from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000. The national budget amounts to around $4,000,000,000.

Investigation revealed that local expenditure during the years from 1920 until 1930 has almost doubled. In 1920 the total was $801,000,000, of which $240,000,000 came from the exchequer. In 1930, the last year for which figures are available, the giant had grown to $1,310,000,000. Of this amount the government supplied $535,000,000.

Chief Item Is Education.

The chief expenditure falling on the national exchequer and local treasuries the committee found under the heading of education. It amounted to $318,000,000. A saving of $5,000,000 could be effected, the committee found, by abolishing redundant schools, in building maintenance, and other costs.

The committee also found that the percentage of pupils per teacher throughout the system is too low. It recommended the dismissal of 5,500 teachers, and elimination of 2,000 assistants. This economy would amount to $7,500,000.

The committee found arrant financial mismanagement in public housing schemes. The country spends about $70,000,000 on this item yearly. A blunt demand is made that the 1924 housing subsidy act, designed to enable workmen to rent homes at less than $2 weekly, be repealed.

Management of funds for the construction of cheap homes has been carried on with total disregard for sharp declines in the price of building materials and interest rates.

In view of these facts, the committee declares, there is no excuse for retaining the expensive subsidy system with its complicated mechanism and lengthy pay roll. If the government continues to subsidize homes for the aged poor, the appropriation should be halved. Endeavors should be made to force tenants to pay an equitable rent when they are able to do so.

Turning to expenditures on public health, the committee found an octopus growth which has spread so rapidly that the organization is now a costly confusion. Standardization could eliminate untold waste, according to the recommendations.

Waste in Relief Funds.

On relief of the poor England and Wales spend annually nearly $160,000,000. This sum is in addition to the dole and the form of relief called "transitional benefit" which is paid after the 26 weeks during which an unemployed person can draw the dole expires. Much of the $160,000,000 goes in what is called "out relief," or payments to families outside such institutions as workhouses.

The out relief estimate for the current year is $10,000,000 above that of last year. The committee found that the expenditure probably would not be kept within its budgetary limitations. An increase due to more unemployment is admitted.

But the committee found that rules restricting out relief to cases of absolute destitution are not observed. Nor has the decline in the cost of living been taken into account. Administrators of out relief have adopted the idea that a minimum salary is due to every man. They then raid the public funds to make up any deficiencies. Above all, the committee found, the fund has become a matter of party politics.

A lump economy of $25,000,000 could be effected in the salaries of local employés, the committee found. The total paid such employés is $610,000,000.

The committee investigating expenditure in Scotland found the state of affairs worse than in England and Wales. On a much narrower margin of expenditure, they made recommendations which they estimate will create a yearly saving of $16,915,000.

REFUSES TO JUMP IN PARACHUTE; DIES AS PLANE CRASHES

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A spinning navy observation plane carried Floyd Vivian Schultz, 29, of Long Beach to his death here today after Second Lieutenant Parker Abbott of Alhambra, Cal., compelled to abandon a struggle to force Schultz from the doomed ship, had leaped to safety with his parachute.

Both men were reservists engaged in a training flight with seven other airplanes.

The motor of Lieut. Abbott's ship stalled and the plane went into a spin at 3,000 feet. Abbott said he knew the ship must crash and motioned Schultz to "bail out," but the observer sat as though petrified with fear.

"I grappled with him in an attempt to throw him from the plane so he could land with his parachute," the lieutenant said. "I couldn't move him. We were losing altitude so fast that I had to jump to save my own life."

AUTO GAS KILLS DRIVER.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Carbon monoxide gas yesterday killed Roy McNanny, 35, as he drove downtown. His automobile plunged against a guard rail in the state war memorial plaza.

SCHOLARSHIP AT U. OF I. IS WON BY CHICAGO YOUTH

A. W. Greenbaum, 4637 Manor avenue, a student at the University of Illinois, was named at Urbana yesterday as one of the four winners of the annual Gregory scholarship awards. The other winners were Hazel D. Clifford, Ottawa; C. W. Tullock, Rockford, and G. J. Heideman, Union, Ill.

The scholarships are paid from a trust fund established by the late Mrs. Louisa C. Gregory, wife of an early president of the university. Under the terms of her will the scholarships must go to "worthy indigent and self-sustaining students, who must be free from the vices of smoking and chewing tobacco and from the use of intoxicating liquor and beverages."

The scholarships are awarded on the basis of examinations. Honorable mention in the examinations was given Frances Phillipee, Champaign, and J. A. Appleman, Urbana.

A Chicago girl, Catherine M. Palandech, 7617 Phillips avenue, and Alice H. Kircher of St. Louis have been chosen as the most popular co-eds at the university. They were awarded free trips to Cuba for the Christmas holidays. Miss Palandech is a daughter of John R. Palandech, foreign language newspaper advertising man.

SERB STUDENTS RIOT; ASSAIL DUCE AS TYRANT

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Dec. 18.—Large anti-Italian demonstrations were held here by students tonight.

After holding a meeting at which speeches were made protesting against "Italian alian imperialism" and Premier Mussolini's alleged endeavors to separate Croatia from Serbia, the students marched with banners to Slavia square, in the neighborhood of the Italian legation.

They cried, "Down with Italian tyranny! Down with the tyrant Mussolini!" The police barred their approach to the legation and later dispersed them. The legation will be under special police guard throughout the night.

600 NAZI TROOPS 'MUTINY' AFTER LEADER IS FIRED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KASSEL, Germany, Dec. 18.—Six hundred Nazi storm troopers resigned here today. Others are expected to follow. The so-called National Socialist "mutiny" developed when no funds were available to pay for the troops' uniforms and the troopers were sued by clothing firms.

The leader of the group thereupon sold 15 tons of potatoes presented by farmers for $5 a ton. The potatoes were given to the needy and the money was used to stave off the creditors. Nazi headquarters dismissed the leader from the party and the storm troopers walked out.

Hitler to "Stay with Ship."

MAGDEBURG, Germany, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler, Nazi leader, told 4,200 enthusiastic party administrators today that, like a faithful captain, he will "remain aboard even if the ship founders." He predicted the defeat of his opponents.

GOOD FELLOWS ON SHOPPING TOURS TO FILL BASKETS

Find Self-Satisfaction in Helping Others.

Good Fellows today are enjoying the first of three distinct pleasures in this Christmas activity. They are shopping for inexpensive toys, fruit, candy and foodstuffs to fill baskets for the poor.

This Good Fellow buying is different from other Christmas shopping. There isn't any pressure of social obligations opening pocket books. There isn't any question about whether the presents will be appreciated.

Self Satisfaction Only Reward.

The Good Fellow is purchasing his basket purely from the spirit of kindness toward those fellow men, women, and children less fortunate than himself. His only reward is the wholesome self-satisfaction of a benevolence toward those otherwise unable to be merry on Christmas.

The Good Fellow shopper need hold no concern as to whether a contemplated gift is what the children in his assigned family want. He may assume that the children are without anything, that he will be the only Santa Claus in the home and that anything and everything will be appreciated.

On Saturday, Christmas eve, will come the second act, and the climax of the Good Fellow drama of Christmas cheer. Baskets will be delivered to homes where the meager allowances from organized charity, taxed by the demands of the depression, can't provide festivity on the holiday.

Own Parties to Be Brighter.

The third phase in the Good Fellow movement will take place later Christmas eve, after the baskets are delivered, and will continue at least through Christmas day. The Good Fellows will go to their church services and their family celebrations with a lighter heart for having brightened the holiday for others.

If you would be one of these Good Fellows don't delay enlisting. Tear the coupon from today's paper and mail to Good Fellows, TRIBUNE, Chicago, or call in person at the Good Fellow headquarters in THE TRIBUNE public service office at Dearborn and Madison streets. The telephone number is Superior 0100.

Guard Against Unworthy.

You'll receive the name of a family recommended as worthy by the United Charities, the Central Charity bureau, the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, the Juvenile court or some other affiliate of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. This system protects you against giving to some professional beggar. It also assures you that yours will be the only basket going to that home.

If you're unable to deliver a basket personally, you may participate in the Good Fellow cheer by mailing a cash donation. Every cent will be used in purchasing baskets. THE TRIBUNE pays administration costs.

HOLIDAY BASKET DISTRIBUTION IS TO START TODAY

Preparations for the distribution of Christmas baskets to the needy were started yesterday by a number of organizations and churches in the city and suburbs. Christmas parties were held at various settlements.

The activities committee of the Elks worked most of the day filling more than 200 baskets which will be distributed today and tomorrow. The fourth floor of their headquarters at 180 West Washington street was filled with food and supplies. Attorney Irving Eisenman is chairman of the committee and charity Christmas fund.

The Pilgrim Congregational church, Lake street and Scoville avenue, Oak Park, began the distribution of dolls and toys yesterday. Members of the 40 and 8 society of the American Legion made a Christmas visit to the convalescent camp of the organization at Orland.

During the day other parties were held at Gads Hill center, 1919 Cullerton street; the Protestant Child Haven, 6323 Yale avenue, and at 6540 Cottage Grove avenue, where the Fort Dearborn post auxiliary of the American Legion gave a children's party. Santa Claus visited each place.

Bandits Threaten to Kill Hotel Clerk; Take $800

Two bandits took $800 in a holdup yesterday of the office of the Parkway hotel, 2100 Lincoln Park West. John Dunn, the night clerk, attempted to save the money by telling the robbers that it was locked in a safe, but they threatened to shoot him and forced him to open the cash drawer which contained it. The money had been collected at a banquet.

Smash Effort to Disrupt 'Gold Sunday' Shopping.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 18.—Reënforced police patrols today frustrated attempts by communists to disrupt Christmas shopping in Berlin. It was "golden Sunday," the last Sunday before Christmas, when all shops in Germany are allowed to be open for business.

The communist disorders started after dusk with attempts to raid food shops and plunder street stalls. Forewarned, the police were able to disperse the rioters by firing warning shots and using night sticks.

Last "Metal Sunday."

This was the third and last of the "precious metal Sundays" in Germany. These pre-Christmas Sundays are named, like wedding anniversaries, for metals which grow more precious as time goes on. The first, two weeks ago, was Copper Sunday, when shops stayed open two hours. On the second, Silver Sunday, they remained open several hours, while today, the last Sunday before Christmas, they did a satisfactory business all day.

Christmas carols are already sounding from the back yards below the apartments of Berlin's elegant west end district. But the court musicians of present day Germany sing in hopes that a few coppers will be tossed to them.

Singers and players on guitars, violins, musical saws, harmonicas and portable organs appear. Often an old fellow moves from yard to yard pushing a phonograph from whose brightly burnished horn issues a wheezy "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

Arrests Ordered.

The new government of Prussia, however, has been bearing down hard on these musicians. The police have been told to arrest them when they have no license as beggars or as public performers.

Germany's Christmas is mostly a contest between keen wits and flat purses—how to do justice to the traditional in spite of the actual. Bold feats of ingenuity and economy are being performed in countless families. In such a contest talents of Germans shine astoundingly. If it cannot be Weihnachten on an old familiar scale, it can be a miniature holiday, a smaller scale reproduction of the past. Only among the 7,000,000 idle will there be families for whom the holidays will pass without the possibility of a fitting observance.

Goose Business Good.

At Oderbruch, the little town between Berlin and Frankfort on the Oder, the famous goose stuffing industry there is looking forward to a huge consumption of its product.

Christmas luxuries on the dinner tables of the half million homes of men out of work in Berlin will be simple enough, however. Extra margarine will be supplied to spread on the heavy rye bread, or perhaps a little goose grease. Butter is hardly likely, for it represents a super-luxury. The cut rate candy stores of the neighborhood will supply little bags of good old marzipan, the Christmas candy made officially of almonds and butter and sugar—but of potatoes, sugar, and some chemical mystery when cheap.

Nazis Are at Work.

Clinking of coins is heard on every busy street corner. Slotted red receptacles abound. But on the face of the can held out for contributions is a compact black swastika. No Kris Kringle with false beard takes this collection, but a grim, uniformed member of Adolf Hitler's storm troopers.

Hitler's National Socialist party is celebrating Christmas by redoubling its street begging campaign. Never have they covered the town so exhaustively as now. The storm troopers know that unless they persuade the pennies to drop past the red slot, they will not get their pay. Big debts for propaganda in this year's five elections hang over the party.

4 ARE ARRESTED AS SUSPECTS IN FATAL HOLDUP

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 18.—Police today arrested four men as suspected members of a gang of five which held up the Third Northwestern National bank of Minneapolis Friday when three men were fatally wounded and more than $20,000 was obtained. Authorities said part of the loot was recovered here.

The arrests were made as the third victim of the shooting, Patrolman Leo Gorsky of Minneapolis, died from his wounds.

The men taken into custody gave their names as Leonard Barton, who police said, also was known as Lawrence de Volt, alias Larry O'Keefe, alias Leonard Carson; James Colton, San Diego, Cal.; Owen Lewis, Kansas City, and Robert Newburn, Wichita, Kas.

According to police, Barton had been sought for a policeman's killing at Kirksville, Mo., and for other crimes at Muskogee, Okla., Kansas City, Omaha, and Milwaukee.

SLOTS AND FLAPS SEEN AS BIG HELP TO LINERS OF AIR

Would Increase Safety of Commercial Planes.

Lower landing speeds, higher top speeds, and greater safety for commercial air liners are now possible as a result of the adoption of slot and flap equipment on new type fighting planes by the army air corps, in the opinion of aeronautic experts. They expect the slot and flap equipment to be perfected by the air corps so that it may be adapted to commercial air liners in the near future.

Commercial planes can be built, with slots and flaps on the wings, that will land at a speed of 60 miles an hour and also attain a top speed of 240 miles an hour, these experts declared. The slot and flap equipment in addition will increase the safety of the planes by decreasing the angle of the glide at which they must land, as shown in the accompanying drawing. This will make it possible to land the planes in smaller fields in an emergency.

Discusses Improvements.

The prospect of these improvements in the performance of large passenger, mail and express air liners was discussed by J. S. McDonnell, signer of the Doodle Bug, a low wing monoplane equipped with slots and flaps, which startled the aviation industry with its exceptional performance in 1929.

"Slots and flaps are equipment that is built into an airplane's wings," Mr. McDonnell said. "They increase the speed range to approximately four times the landing speed. That characteristic can be used in several ways. For military planes, the top speed would be increased to the limit. For commercial planes, the landing speed would be lowered and the top speed increased, and for private planes, the landing speed would be greatly decreased.

"The need for lower landing speeds in commercial planes is increasingly apparent. In the first six months of this year our air lines carried 248,954 passengers. During that period there were 67 accidents to commercial air liners. Sixteen passengers, ten pilots, and one co-pilot were killed. Injuries were suffered by 199 persons.

Cause of Accidents.

"Eighty per cent of those accidents were caused by the pilot's error, power plant failures, or weather, darkness, airport or terrain. Planes equipped with slots and flaps would be able to avoid such accidents in most emergencies, because they land slower and in a smaller space. Even pilot's error would decrease as a cause for accidents.

"Twenty-one of the 67 accidents were caused by forced landings, where slots and flaps are particularly useful.

"It is time for air transport operators, and the manufacturers of commercial planes, to consider slots and flaps carefully, not only as safety devices, but as equipment that will enhance the efficiency of their planes considerably. The fastest commercial plane we have today is the Lockheed Orion, which lands at 72 miles an hour and has a top speed of 200 miles an hour. With slots and flaps, that plane should land at 60 miles an hour and attain a top speed of 240 miles an hour.

Gliding Range.

"The Orion glides at a ratio of twelve to one. That means that if the pilot is trying to land in a small field, and there is a row of trees along the edge of the field over which he must pass, the gliding space would have to be at least twelve times the height of the barrier. It is hazardous to attempt to land such a plane anywhere other than an airport for that reason.

"But with slots and flaps, the gliding ratio of the Orion would be decreased to about 4 to 1. That would mean that the pilot could land the plane in a length only four times the height of the barrier. Under such circumstances emergency landings could be made in small fields without great hazard."

QUALIFICATIONS OF REPEAL.

Forthright constitutionalists are not in sympathy with any treatment of the 18th amendment except its unconditional repeal. From the standpoint of American principle and even from that of expediency in the long run this position is, in our opinion, unassailable. The 18th amendment is in fact a police ordinance which has no proper place in the fundamental law of the land, if indeed it has a place in any law which the science of free government would recognize.

However, as has been said, politics is the science of the second best, and it seems probable that even at the height of the reaction against the intolerable conditions brought about by the national prohibition experiment a sufficient minority of the states might refuse to ratify a straight and unqualified repeal. The problem for those who seek the earliest possible and most practicable relief from the prohibition blunder is therefore to formulate, if possible, a repeal which shall meet the fears or objections of moderates, who seek some formula for insuring the protection of dry states.

The effort to accomplish this preceded the adoption of the 18th amendment. In 1913 congress adopted over the veto of President Taft the Webb-Kenyon act, which prohibited shipments of alcoholic beverages "in violation of" state dry laws. This was not satisfactory to prohibitionists because many of the prohibition states did not prohibit importation, and indeed President Taft, relying upon court decisions, held that the Webb-Kenyon act, and a fortiori the state laws prohibiting importation, were contrary to the interstate commerce clause of the constitution. The national prohibitionists being unsatisfied with the Webb-Kenyon act, it was amended by the so-called Reed bone dry amendment, to prohibit transportation into any state which prohibited manufacture or sale, whether it permitted importation or not.

This was in the heyday of the Anti-Saloon league, and even the Reed amendment was unsatisfactory to its bosses. It was in fact the first stage of federal domination, subsequently perfected by the 18th amendment, for as Mr. Charles Merz records in his admirable book, "The Dry Decade," only thirteen states were bone dry before the war. The other dry states did not forbid importation or some domestic use of alcoholic beverages.

Now that we have had our lesson in the folly of national prohibition, it is probable that even the 13 bone dry states, or at any rate several of them, are less favorable to the bone dry dogma than they were in 1914. Nevertheless, it may be expedient to make some provision in the act of repeal which will restrict constitutionally any shipment into a state which has adopted complete state prohibition. But a state which wishes to permit importation should be free to do so. To follow the line of the Reed amendment which imposed a federal rule upon a sovereign commonwealth is vicious in principle and worse than ineffectual in practice. No such power should be vested in the federal government and it would, in our opinion, be too high a price to pay for repeal. The phraseology of the proposed amendment is not sufficiently clear on this point.

But if the force of dry bigotry, which if dominant in 13 states would defeat any repeal, can be weakened by any reasonable concession, such concession should be made. For example, it is argued by the drys that a mere statute prohibiting importation into states prohibiting importation, like the Webb-Kenyon act, may be repealed by a mere majority of congress. They demand therefore a constitutional rule as more permanent or difficult to remove.

This seems to us a plausible objection, if it be conceded that any prohibitory ordinance is justifiable. It is not inconsistent with the right of a state to have state prohibition. It merely obviates the operation of the interstate commerce clause of the constitution to prevent a state from prohibiting importation.

The proposal to insert into a repeal amendment some rule which will forbid the reestablishment of the saloon, even in states which would permit the saloon, seems to have fallen by the wayside. It should not be revived. It is not only certain to be futile and mischievous in practice, but is a repetition of the basic fault of national prohibition. It is not a defense but an invasion of local self-government, and we have had enough of the consequences of federal domination over the sovereignty of the states to teach us to avoid this mistake. It is for each state to determine what liquor control it wants. The only justifiable recourse to federal authority in this respect is to prevent the defeat of this right.

THE REDS PLAN A BIOLOGICAL EVENT.

Maj. Yeats-Brown, the Bengal Lancer, making an unsympathetic tour of soviet Russia, published his impressions. The major had proved that he was not fasular by treating India understandingly. He came as near rajahyoga as an Englishman is likely to get. Russia, however, he saw with a fish eye and found queer fish, most of them in the pan but many of them in the fire. English radicals, semi-sovietized, attempted counterpoise.

One incident in the working of the proletarian planned society attracted special attention. It related to a beneficiary of the new freedom, the wife of an habitually drunken citizen and the mother of five children, who found that there was to be a sixth child, an unwanted and unneeded addition to the Marxian childhood. She applied at the state clinic for the abortion which is contemplated in such events by the planned society, but the bureaucracy failed her. She was put aside, rebuffed, and told to come again until it was too late. The sixth child escaped the planned society and was born.

Maj. Yeats-Brown's reference to the incident provoked an inquiry of the Soviet Institute for the Care of Mother and Child for more of the facts and they were forthcoming for such interest as they may have for society planners everywhere. It seems that the lady with the five children and the drunken husband was a hod carrier. When the sixth child was expected the state doctor certified the lady as unfit to work. She thereupon became one of the unemployed. As an unemployed person she could not get an order from a place of employment. That seems logical. She had no place of employment because of the condition which sent her to the clinic which refused to receive her because the condition which qualified her for attention had led to another condition which disqualified her for it. One committee could not help her because, although a worker, she was only a temporary worker, and another was unable because, although she was a renter, she had not paid her rent.

Meanwhile the impending new citizen continued to impend and in the due course of nature announced its arrival not only in but in spite of the planned society in which, also in due course, it will be indoctrinated in the Marxian dialectic and subsequently may even things up in the family by turning papa in to the G. P. U. for counter revolutionary sentiments. A papa with a neat taste for insobriety is likely sooner or later to expose himself to error which a bright eyed child will perceive.

Until that time the mother may find some pleasure in teaching the little child to sing: "Yes, we have no bananas."

STILL AT IT.

The protest of the Civic federation and bureau of public efficiency against a new special levy for the support of the Garfield park conservatory will have the sympathy and support of taxpayers.

The action protested is to include in the tax levy for 1931 and 1932 an item adding three cents per $100 taxable value on the west park district property under the act of 1893 concerning aquariums and museums in public parks. The theory seems to be that the conservatory is to be reclassified now as a museum of botany and under that guise the taxpayer is to be gypped for a little more of his remaining cash, if he has any.

We are confident the people of the west side are not so impressed with the civic virtue of the present commission that they will gladly accept this new imposition simply because the Garfield park conservatory is a highly creditable institution. It has been that for several years, and while it is known that the commission is hard up, like all public bodies, there are other ways of providing for the conservatory than making a new levy. This is pointed out by the federation, which calls the attention of the commissioners to the fact "that the park employés' pay roll for the west park system for the twelve months ended July 1, 1932, was more than $95,000 above the corresponding pay roll of the south park commissioners, in spite of the fact that the south parks have to maintain more than three times as much acreage and twice as much boulevard and driveway mileage as the west parks maintain. Since July 1 there have been considerable reductions in the employés' pay roll of the west parks, but still, as of Oct. 1 last its pay roll was higher than that of the south park commissioners."

The people of the district will agree emphatically with the federation's suggestion that a reduction in pay rolls and, we would add, in all unessential expenditures should precede any addition whatever to their taxation. Three cents per $100 on property value may seem a small amount, but in the aggregate it is not, and as evidence that in the administration of west park affairs the burden of the taxpayer is borne very jauntily, its significance is important. The demand for relief, for immediate maximum relief, is going to be obeyed now or by the successors of officials who are deaf to it at this stage.

Editorial of the Day

THE STATE HAS A RIGHT TO PRESERVE ITS HIGHWAYS.

[Decatur Herald.]

That decision by the federal Supreme court in the Texas highway case is likely to be history making.

The right of a state to conserve its investment in paved roads by regulating the sort of traffic that may go over them and the right of a state to fix rates charged by trucks is upheld with only one dissenting opinion.

The decision is revolutionary. Under the old conception, which has obtained since highways were first built, any one could use them. They were the property of all the people and nobody could be restrained from using them. In the century since railroads came in a great volume of state and court law has grown up defining the rights of railroads. Paved highways have developed so rapidly that laws providing for their use have lagged behind. The judicial understanding of the rights of users and public is just beginning to be crystallized.

The Texas legislature passed a law providing that no common carrier of property for compensation or hire should operate over the highways of the state without first obtaining a certificate of public convenience and necessity, and that no contract carrier should thus operate without a permit. The law further provided that the railroad commission should have authority to supervise and regulate transportation by trucks.

The railroads were instrumental in obtaining enactment of the statute, but the law was framed in such a way as to suggest that its purpose was merely to preserve the roads from being rapidly worn out by heavy loads and to insure the safety of the traveling public.

The law was contested by certain truck lines which had contracts for the carrying of goods between designated points at specified rates. These truck lines contended that the law worked to invalidate their contracts and to change them from private carriers into common carriers. The law, however, was sustained in the lower courts and was taken to the Supreme court on appeal.

Justice Sutherland, who wrote the majority opinion, held that the police powers of the state gave it the right to control all traffic, both private and public carriers, and that traffic engaged in transportation for hire—such as trucks handling freight for regular customers—were amenable to regulation, in Texas' case, by the railroad commission. The commission under the law has the power to fix rates for trucks as it fixes rates for railroads in intrastate traffic.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

ARE YOU ABLE to speak glibly the word "technocracy" and in a few well chosen words tell where you stand in regard to it? Well, you'd better, because it's the most fashionable word we have nowadays, and if your neighbor at dinner asks what you think about it and you say you've never caught any, but hooked four small mouth black bass in an hour last summer up in Canada—why, you'll simply be socially dropped, that's all. None other than President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia is now enlisted in a war on those who maintain that the uncontrolled advance of the machine is the cause of the economic collapse, unemployment, the low price of wheat, the financial despondency of the world, the spots on the sun, and the present severe cold spell. That's technocracy. Find out which side you're on and then go to it. Get technocracy so tame that you can make it count ten, roll over and play dead, and snap sugar off its nose. You may not be able to prove what you say; nobody does that, but it offers a great chance for a nice, chatty argument.

TO INNOCENCE.

O Innocence! Rich in your beauty!
O Innocence! Poor in your truth!
Rude is your lively awakening . . .
Love is the folly of youth!

Gone is your mantle of whiteness
When Life-tired lines mark the brow . . .
And the essense of peace . . . our true duty . . .
Bequeaths us an eternal vow.

When palms that are stained stroke the forehead . . .
And fears that are cold clutch the heart,
When words on the lips are no more said,
And tears from the eyes no more start,

Who says you shall be there to guide one
Up to the regions above?
The devils of hell are beside one
Once scorched by the fire of Love.

When maidens of sixteen have sweethearts,
And fold their hands nightly in prayer . . .
O Angels of heaven! How peaceful
Their lives are . . . because you are there!

If some one would beg you forever
To dwell underneath virgin breasts,
Would you then be prone to sever,
Or deaf to the world's driving jests?

Could you then stay? . . . rich in beauty!
Would you then stay? . . . poor in truth!
Mean is your ugly awakening;
Age laughs at love-times of youth!

THEY OWE US THERE.

(To be sung to the tune "Over There," which we sang with so much feeling only a few years ago.)

They owe us there, they owe us there,
What a jolt, what a jolt, they don't care
That we need the money, we need the money,
The hard times busted us for fair.
They don't care, they don't care,
We say pay, all they do is to stare;
They owe us there, they owe us there,
And we'll never get it back
What they owe us over there.

IT'S A BOY!

FOR centuries there has been ceaseless search for a means of controlling the sex of prospective offspring. The dairy farmer has taken a hand because he makes money on heifers and he loses it on bulls. Monogamous birds and beasts have never been able to overrun the earth because the system is wasteful. On the other hand, polygamous species are embarrassed by an excess of males so great that not even a fighting-killing policy carried out by the cock of the roost is capable of keeping the number of males within comfortable limits.

The prolonged and widespread interest in the subject has resulted in a multitude of remedies. There are more quacks in this field than in any other. There have been hundreds of ways suggested to cause the offspring to be male or female, according to wish. These have been given all sorts of trials. In addition to those classed as quackish there are scores that are honestly advocated by well meaning persons. Science has never been able to contribute any method of value. And what has been continues to be.

However, a recent proposal offers something in a related field. A woman may not be able to fix the sex of her unborn child, but if this late proposal has value she will not name the baby William when the name Sally is to be appropriate. The affectionate friends will not buy presents that would suit a girl and then have a boy show up.

Drs. Dorn and Sugarman of San Francisco have devised a laboratory test which will show whether a baby is to be a girl or a boy about six calendar months before the expected date of arrival. This test is based on the Aschheim-Zondek test and makes use of the same materials, and the method is based on the same general principles. It may not work in an extensive trial. The confirmation of its value, which these physicians report, may be due to coincidence and may be the result of an experience which is too limited. But, as far as the evidence goes, the test is promising.

It can be made in any laboratory equipped to make the pregnancy test. It should not cost more than that test does, and probably not quite as much.

HEART TROUBLE.

E. B. S. writes: At the age of 15 I had an attack of rheumatism and have had a double heart murmur ever since. Going to business daily I have some steep subway stair climbing to do. Is this injurious, and does it tend to weaken the heart more? While I don't have spells of any kind, the only time I am bothered is in climbing stairs, when it is hard for me to catch my breath. I am 30 years of age. Is my ailment a dangerous one, and would it be dangerous for me to have children? Is it all right for me to do bending exercises?

REPLY:

You appear to have a chronic organic heart disease of rheumatic origin. Your compensation appears to be good. As a rule persons with heart disorders of this combination should climb stairs, do bending exercises, take long walks and, in other ways, maintain good muscle tone.

Your compensation is almost but not altogether equal to the strain of stair climbing. Your physician should be the judge of just how much work your compensation will permit of.

REPLY:

Copenhagen snuff is one way of using tobacco and has the same virtues and vices of tobacco in other forms.

KEEP UP TREATMENT.

Mrs. A. J. writes: After ten years of hot flashes every fifteen minutes, day and night, my nervous system and general health have suffered greatly. Is there no cure? Ovarian extract is only a relief and has to be used constantly. Must one suffer so for being a woman? I can't endure it much longer.

REPLY.

There is nothing to do but to take ovarian extract in some form or other, in some way or other, as you need it, for a few years. It will ease you by. Meanwhile nature will be working out the problem to a successful solution. I wonder if you do not need a philosophy as much as you do ovarian extract. Your statements indicate that you have not used ovarian extract properly. If at all, and that you are taking your condition too seriously.

MAY GROW FOR AWHILE.

L. B. writes: 1. I am 16 years old, 5 feet 3, and want to know if there is anything I can do to increase my height.

2. Recently a test disclosed the presence of albumin. Is this serious? What should I do about it?

REPLY.

1. If you eat proper amounts of simple foods and get plenty of rest you should grow for about another year.

2. Albuminuria in a rapidly growing boy is generally not a serious matter. If it is the only symptom it calls for no treatment.

TO BE WRECKED.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—[Friend of the People.]—The ruins of a church stand on our street, which is not only unsightly but is now very unsafe. People are taking away all the lumber from the inside; trucks have come and removed all fixtures and doors, etc.; the walls and a high chimney are very weak. A stairway fell down during the last rainstorm. I sincerely hope that this building will be wrecked before some of our children are killed or injured. C. T.

The pastor of the church has informed this department that arrangements are being made to demolish the building and that wrecking will be started at an early date

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 19, 1916.

LONDON.—Britain's reply to Germany's peace proposals will be delivered by David Lloyd George in the house of commons tomorrow. It will be the premier's first speech in parliament since his elevation to the head of Great Britain's new war ministry. His words will declare to the world the policy to be taken by all the entente allies on the proposal made by Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg that the Teutonic allies were ready to talk of peace. All the allied governments have received the official text of the German note. Great Britain received its copy from Ambassador Page about the same time it was delivered to the French government at Paris.

PARIS.—The Rumanian army is safe, according to news received in Paris, says the Petit Parisien. The paper says that the survivors are beyond the Sereth river at Jasay and in Bessarabia, where they are being regrouped and refitted in view of further operations. The entire Rumanian front is to be held by the Russians alone.

LONDON.—The army of Field Marshal von Mackensen in Dobrudja is within twenty-six miles of the border of the Russian province of Bessarabia. In three days this army has advanced fifty miles from its long maintained positions between Cernavoda and Constanza. Mackensen's troops have crossed the line Babadagh-Pecineaga.

PARIS.—South of the Somme there was quite pronounced activity of the two artilleries in the sector of La Maisonette. An enemy detachment which attempted to carry out a surprise attack against our trenches south of Fresnes was repulsed.

OTTAWA, Ont.—Canada has begun to tear up 1,000 miles of railway to meet the needs of the war on the western front in France and Belgium. The rails will be shipped to France, where they will be relaid to facilitate the movement of troops, guns, munitions, and supplies from French ports to the fighting line. Laborers are tearing up 300 miles of government railway sidings, and it has been decided to remove 220 miles of rails between Edmonton and the Pacific coast, where the Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific run parallel. Traffic will be thrown upon one of these lines.

NEW YORK.—The fortune of upward of $20,000,000 which George C. Boldt left his two children at his death Dec. 5 will be placed actively in the hands of his daughter, the greatest estate personally directed by a woman since the death of Hetty Green. George C. Boldt Jr., and his sister, Mrs. Alfred Graham Miles, are to share equally the direction of their father's property, the Waldorf-Astoria and the Bellevue-Stratford hotels here.

CHICAGO.—In Padua, Italy, the Princess Chinisy is dead. She was the beautiful Clara Ward, daughter of Eber B. Ward, millionaire shipbuilder of Detroit. She was born in mystery. For two decades she was the wanton flame of Europe, friend of king and clown. The news of her death was received by Calvin Fentress, treasurer of Lyon, Gary & Co., in a cable from Padua, which read: "Clara dead. Notify family. Cassalota." Cassalota was the last of her many husbands. Clara Ward was born in 1873. Mrs. Maria Streeter, a niece of Eber B. Ward and the first wife of Capt. George Wellington Streeter of the "Deestrict of Lake Michigan," claimed that she was Clara's mother. When she was 18 she married Joseph de Chimay, the Belgian prince, who was followed by Janci Rigo, a gypsy fiddler; Giuseppe Ricciardi, a clerk, and then Cassalota.

IN DEFENSE OF THE SELF-SUSTAINING.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Please let me say a word in defense of the so-called employed public, so harshly criticized in the papers by members of the Emergency Welfare fund committee. How many who are employed are receiving anywhere near the old wages or even working full time? Very, very few. Yet as long as there is a pay check, no matter how small, it is subject to garnishee, and that with most companies means loss of the job. So as long as there is a pay check all bills must be met, and most of us are doing just that. We have learned to adjust expenses to income no matter how small the income. Many of us are home buyers, homes with mortgages that carry wage assignments, so we must meet our payments regardless of reduced income. The city is clamoring for taxes, taxes dating back to the whoopee days of one Thompson. Street assessments must be paid. I recently received a very courteous but very coldly legal explanation from Collector Kaindl on why they can't be paid in further installments. Coal companies are not extending credit, so it means cash for coal or freeze.

All right, we have that problem to meet, and so far most of us have met it; and many of us are contributing a little toward the E. W. F., and many have a neighbor or two who is in a very bad way and we give a little help there. Most of us are glad to help a good neighbor, and we eat a little cheaper fare—we who rarely had a steak, anyhow, and we help the neighbor who is worse off.

And what do we get? Sarcastic statements from those trying to collect an E. W. F. Is that fair?

Has the E. W. F. very thoroughly investigated those who are receiving help? Isn't it common knowledge that many who are receiving help from the unemployment agencies are still driving cars? I can point out two instances where families, at least one of whom is working, are getting help. Two days ago a neighbor suspected of bootlegging received charity coal and a food box the next day. We have one scoopful of coal in our basement, and because we have a baby I run down a dozen times an hour and fire with wood, and there is scarcely enough of that until pay day, and I've enumerated above what that pay check must cover.

So, if the E. W. F. will devote some energy to eliminating unworthy receivers of help, then the small amount of those of us who give will be more effective in giving relief where it is really needed. But please, please don't revile those who are fortunate to be working on reduced incomes, with expenses based on 1929, except, maybe, food; and when the food item is the only one we can cut it means we eat very frugally.

And one last thought: Has any one who is receiving charity come forth with any voluntary offer of rendering some service to the public for the help they get? Why can't those who apply for help offer to clean viaducts, clogged, slushy corner crossings, etc.? O, no All they can do is yell because they don't get enough and agitate against a government to which they don't contribute any taxes. There is a very small group of unemployed who have not asked charity, who had gardens last summer, who raised a few chickens, do odd jobs here and there, and who are still self-sustaining. To such as these should go a vote of congratulation and good will. And Good Fellow baskets. MRS. M. HEFF.

PLAN OF FARM RELIEF.

Tarkio, Mo., Dec. 16.—I am the owner of 1,000 acres of land in Iroquois county, Ill. I say that I am the owner, as it does not have a mortgage on it; but it looks as if the state of Illinois would own it before long the way it is taxing farm land.

I think that your suggestion that land seeded down should be free of tax is the best idea that has been brought forward. I would add to your suggestion that the Illinois state agriculture department be closed and that the county advisers, or county agents, as they are called, which the agriculture department manufactures, be discharged, deported, or put in jail.

W. D. RANKIN.

THE CLEANUP.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—In fairness to those of your readers who may be impressed by Mayor Cermak's cleanup order, don't you think you should inform them that they will still be able to visit the speakeasies and bookies as soon as files are rechecked and brought up to date?

This is just a periodical outburst and everything should be adjusted in a few days. During the mayor's term of office this has happened two or three times, and even during previous administrations the same orders were given at various times and police were threatened with dismissal.

Let us hope that the zero weather and foreign debts crowd this nonsense out of the newspapers before the state's attorney learns of it and decides to investigate the police department and thus burn up $50,000. These investigations are so costly and mean so little. J. T. K.

COURTNEY ACTS TO TIGHTEN UP ON CRIME LAWS

Wants Pontiac Reserved for First Offenders.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney and his first assistant, Grover C. Niemeyer, announced yesterday that they hope to tighten up the administration of the criminal laws by instructing their assistant prosecutors to ask the Criminal court judges to interpret the laws strictly.

One of the primary objects of this campaign, it was announced, is to prevent, where possible, the sending of hardened criminals or those with little or no chance of reformation to an institution which was intended to be a place for training and correction of first offenders. A survey of the Criminal court records shows that many persons have been sentenced to Pontiac reformatory who, under a strict interpretation of the statutes, should go to the penitentiary.

Change Original Charge.

The purpose of the Pontiac reformatory and of the probation act is circumvented, it was pointed out by the state's attorney's office, by the simple expedient of changing the original charge made against a defendant.

Changing of the charge is possible because indictments, as a rule, carry several counts. For instance, an indictment for robbery always carries larceny counts, and the judge has the power to change the larceny charge to one of petty larceny. The same is true of a burglary indictment. Murder indictments carry counts of manslaughter and those of embezzlement and confidence game carry counts of a misdemeanor known as false pretenses.

The statutes provide, under the parole law, that any defendant, no matter what his age, shall be sentenced to the penitentiary for crimes of misprision of treason, murder, rape, or kidnaping. Another clause provides that every male person over 21 found guilty of robbery while armed with a dangerous weapon, or if he has a confederate present so armed, shall be sentenced to the penitentiary and not the reformatory.

Armed Burglars.

The same section provides penitentiary sentence for those committing the crime of burglary of a dwelling house in the night time who are found to be armed with a deadly weapon or an anesthetic.

"In placing certain safeguards around the Pontiac reformatory the lawmakers acted in the belief that persons who commit the more serious felonies, such as murder, rape, robbery, and burglary, are past the stage of a reformatory," said Prosecutor Courtney. "The more stringent discipline of the penitentiary is needed for criminals of this type."

An inspection of the county jail records disclosed that at least a dozen robbers, who were armed with deadly weapons and who were over the age limit set by law, have been sentenced within the last few weeks to Pontiac reformatory. A few examples picked at random follow in which criminals were sent to Pontiac:

BENNIE MARONI, alias Piemonti, 24 years old, involved with two other men, both of whom have previous records. They held up Edward Wiswald, 2017 South Racine avenue, a messenger for a department store, who was sent to deliver more than $200 in C. O. D. orders. They were armed with revolvers. The charge in this case was changed to larceny and 1 to 10 year sentence to Pontiac imposed.

GUST RICHARDS, alias Gust Vasales, 28 years old; was involved in eight different robberies. He was sentenced to Pontiac on a larceny charge. The other cases were stricken from the dockets. The particular charge on which he was sentenced was that of robbing Ann Rhingold, 4116 West Monroe street, cashier in a Walgreen drug store. He threatened to fill some of the employes "full of lead" if they resisted.

ANDREW GALLANT, 22 years old, was involved in two charges. He, too, was sentenced on a charge of larceny in one case and the other was stricken from the dockets. While armed with a revolver he entered a private home at 3317 Washington boulevard and held up Theodore Rosenberg and others, who were visiting at the apartment.

JOHN HERWATH, 23 years old, is a burglar who committed at least two crimes who escaped the penitentiary. The charge was changed in his case to one of attempted burglary and a sentence of 1 to 5 years imposed, instead of one of one year to life, as provided by statute for the charge of burglary.

The probation statute, that is to come in for close scrutiny and a demand for more care in its interpretation, provides that no one charged with murder, manslaughter, rape, kidnaping, perjury, arson, larceny, and embezzlement for an amount over $200, incest, burglary of a dwelling house, or violation of an election law, shall be eligible for probation. It is also provided that any one previously convicted of a crime greater than a misdemeanor is not eligible for release by this method.

Robbery Is Excluded.

Many judges have been puzzled by the fact that this statute does not exclude robbery from probation. However, the statistics show that judges seldom put a man charged with robbery on probation before first changing the charge to one of larceny and fixing the amount under $200.

Under this section few automobile thieves are legally eligible for probation, it was pointed out at the prosecutor's office. Strenuous efforts are to be made in the future to prevent automobile thieves from obtaining leniency, because, as the prosecutor pointed out, the first step in a career of robbery is usually the theft of an automobile.

PARAGUAY WILL ORDER ENVOY TO QUIT PEACE TALK

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Government officials stated today they are considering asking Juan Jose Soler, Paraguay's representative on the commission of neutral powers seeking to terminate hostilities between Paraguay and Bolivia in the Gran Chaco, to withdraw from further negotiations.

The withdrawal, which probably will be announced tomorrow, the officials said, follows Paraguay's reluctance to accept the most recent peace plan offered by the representatives of the neutral powers sitting in Washington. Public opinion is said to favor the withdrawal of Soler from the deliberations.

Paraguay claims the terms of the new plan for settling the Gran Chaco dispute are unfair and unsatisfactory to Paraguay. The neutral commission's plan has been indorsed by the league of nations' council at Geneva, and that body has urged both Paraguay and Bolivia to adhere to the suggestions of the neutrals commission.

BIOLOGICAL CHIEF FACTOR IN DEATH BY TUBERCULOSIS

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The reason more girls than boys die of tuberculosis, the National Tuberculosis association reported today, is merely because they are girls.

After an investigation of every tuberculosis death in New York City in a year among girls 15 to 24 years old, Miss Jessamine Whitney, association statistician, and Miss Edna Nicholson of the research staff, found:

"The primary cause of increased tuberculosis mortality among young women lies in biological rather than environmental factors.

"For psychological reasons which are not abnormal nor pathological in any way, young women are, always have been, and very likely will continue to be, more susceptible to fatal tuberculosis than other groups of the population."

FALL IS FATAL TO WOMAN 78.

Belloc Depicts Napoleon as Hope of World

Sees His Fall as Blow to Civilization.

"Napoleon," by Hilaire Belloc. [Lippincott.]
"The King of Rome," by Octave Aubry. [Lippincott.]

HILAIRE BELLOC, one of the most versatile and prolific of English authors—he has written essays, novels, poetry, children's books, history, biography, religious works—is another writer whose imagination has been fired by the splendid spectacle of Napoleon. The author has no new material at hand (it is indeed questionable if there is anything new or original to be found out about this much studied man and his era) and he approaches his subject with deep admiration, even hero worship.

HILAIRE BELLOC.

He sees Napoleon as incapable of intrigue, as the man who embodied all the hopes of the western world. "Napoleon Bonaparte came very near the reestablishment of our civilization, the fixing of it permanently in a renovated, stable, and noble form. He would in doing so have restored the soul of our culture and given it peace." Hilaire Belloc sees no hope for the western world without the unification of Europe, the ideal which Napoleon struggled for.

In the opening chapter the author sums up in 65 pages the character of Napoleon, his aims, his triumphs and failures, and his meaning to his contemporary world and to ours. No matter what your personal opinion as to Napoleon's nobility of character and motive, this summary, as far as it goes, is penetrating and arresting, well written, and, from the author's point of view, credible and adequately supported by facts.

The second section of the biography, under the head "The Episodes," includes "The Arising," a description of Napoleon's boyhood, youth, and first promise; "Italy," a record of the first brilliant campaigns; "Caesar," the triumph of Napoleon as emperor of France; "The High Victories," an analysis of extraordinary perspicacity of the great military victories that made Napoleon's name the most respected and feared in the world; "The Blunder and Recovery," the first hints of Napoleon's fallibility; "The Fatal Move and Its Fruit," the great Russian catastrophe that knocked the last props from under the magnificent structure of Napoleon's, and "The Mother and Death," the last and tragic exile at St. Helena.

Hilaire Belloc writes with charm and dignity. Perhaps the best scenes are those depicting the battles about which the author is brilliantly prepared to write (since he is an authority on military tactics). His understanding of the campaigns, the errors and failure in military plans, emerges in a remarkable fashion. The biography is a good, interesting, pleasing one, possessing the fascination inherent in the subject matter, dramatically written, without obvious or offensive propaganda, and written in a scholarly manner.

In comparing it to Emil Ludwig's biography of the same figure, as will inevitably happen, the reader realizes the inadequacy of Belloc's. Though it is written more carefully, controlled in the frame of deliberate structure, it misses the broad approach, the mass of detail, the psychological analysis, and the easy sweep of the narrative of Emil Ludwig's "Napoleon." Hilaire Belloc has done a notable biography which will interest most readers, but Napoleon has been so profusely written about that it would take a great genius to reinterpret him in a manner that would attract universal attention. "Napoleon" contains many excellent illustrations and 22 maps that effectively elaborate the analyses of the battles.

Napoleon's long hoped for son, a son that was denied him in his marriage to Josephine, whom he divorced mainly for that reason, was born to his second wife, Marie Louise of Austria. He was titled at his birth "The King of Rome" and called "L'Aiglon" [the eaglet]. Napoleon the Second lived only for twenty-one years, during which time tragedy and frustration haunted his days. He was a bright, eager spirit, weak in body, sensual in appetites, whose hopes and ambitions were defeated continuously by Metternich. Octave Aubry's biography is written with pathos and brilliance and contains much new material gleaned from the secret archives of Austria and the private files of the Oetingen-Wallerstein and Obernau families. Andre Maurois calls it "a true biography which is at once a very well told story and a work of historical authenticity." M. D.

'The Left Bank' Adds Little to Rice's Standing

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"The Left Bank," which began an engagement at the Harris theater last night, does little or nothing to sustain the reputation of the author of "Street Scene" and "Counsellor-at-Law" as one of the major American dramatists. It merely brings up the question, What has happened to Elmer Rice?

This query can be answered, I believe, by a statement of the fact that here he has abandoned his technique of writing animated chronicle dramas in fifteen or twenty scenes and limited himself to a single scene and a small group of characters. Mr. Rice is an excellent panoramist, but when he undertakes a problem of tight construction he betrays himself as nearly an amateur.

It was often suggested, during the successful run of "The Left Bank" in New York, that this was probably an old manuscript, dug up out of the trunk in which Mr. Rice had buried his apprentice work. This is probably an erroneous idea, for the play deals with contemporary material. I can sympathize with the old trunk theory of its origin, however, because the work impresses me as being pervaded with a tendency toward juvenile utterance. Its point of view is adult, but its treatment is that of studious, glib adolescence.

In "The Left Bank" Mr. Rice has undertaken to discuss a thesis almost as formally as the argumentative French playwrights of twenty-five years ago, of whom the late Eugene Brieux was the archetype. He has said: Let us consider the manners, morals and general eccentricity of the esthetic expatriates, male and female, who cluster in the Latin quarter of Paris and shout their graceless battle cry of freedom, thus: "No civilized man can live in America!"

He has taken a room in a cheap Montparnasse hotel [faithfully reproduced by the scene designer] for his scene. He has installed there a gabbling little writer for the little reviews and his attractive, tolerant wife; and he has added to the ménage another couple—the husband an honest average American, the wife a featherhead who thinks that art is wonderful and marital infidelity more so.

He has argued his theme—the pitiful and depressing futility of the left bank point of view—between this quartet, first on one side of the stage and then on the other, and then back again, with the minimum of dramatic detail. In the end he reassorts the couples and the writer's wife goes back to American sanity with the regular fellow, while the other casual sinners cling to their dumb bohemianism in Paris.

This wisp of a story is told to the accompaniment of all the standard arguments and retorts that are inevitable when the "moderns" lock horns with the conservatives. The very young may regard the debate as impressive, but to me it is fairly dull.

Since it deals largely with the free sex life of Homo Parisiensis, "The Left Bank" is quite candid in its biological references. I feel, however, that Mr. Rice's approach to such matters is clumsy as well as frank. Moreover, in his treatment of seduction scenes he appears to have studied the female of the species not so much from the book of life as from the writings of Mae West.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 18.—Tom Mix is retiring from films. He has obtained his release from his contract with Universal to take effect Christmas day, on completion of "Rustlers' Roundup," his ninth successive starring film in a little more than a year for Universal.

Mix's retirement may be permanent, or it may be temporary. The state of his health will determine whether the longest starred and most publicized of all the film cowboy heroes ever steps in camera range.

Mix said today that recent illnesses and accidents convinced him he should quit. His immediate plan is to take his wife, the former Mabel Ward; his trained horses, and his cowboy retinue, and proceed to Europe to start a leisurely tour of the world.

"Universal deeply regrets Mix's intention to retire from the screen," President Carl Laemmle of the studio said.

Mix has been a movie star for more than 20 years, as long as Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin, and longer than Buster Keaton and Lew Cody. Mix has been starred in 370 feature films, more than any other star. He suffered many broken bones in the course of his film work, and says: "I began my career as a circus performer and would personally prefer to finish the same way. I'm part American Indian in my blood, but I guess I'm part gypsy too, and I just decided I was tired of things and wanted to start movin'."

Good Morning!

Here's a picture produced in England featuring an English cast headed by our own Adolphe Menjou and presided over by Fred Niblo, an American director.

If you don't regard the piece too seriously, you will find it pleasing entertainment. The acting is smooth, direction commendable, lines often amusing, and there are one or two different and intriguing situations.

The tale occupies itself with the peccadilloes and predicaments of two de luxe crooks. You meet them on a South sea isle, where they have lived for ten long years for the reason that they have been naughty boys and the French police would have handcuffs with them. They are weary of exile and hungry for the old life of luxury and excitement. A pearl of great price comes into their possession, and—there they are en route to Europe.

They work their way to London where Dan MacQueen steals a bracelet and Joe Fragson gathers to himself considerable lucre. But they have not argued with the keen wits of a certain lady adventuress—amusingly and deftly portrayed by Miss Benita Hume, charmingly remindful of Mary Astor and the late Alma Rubens. . . . And so on, to a highly moral ending where you behold the partners in crime working harder than they've ever worked before. Three guesses where. The answer has something to do with rock piles.

On the same program is a short travelogue . . . "Virgins of Bali" . . . filmed in the Dutch East Indies, where "Goona Goona" was photographed. It provides a pleasant peep into the life and customs of the sunny, personable Balinese whose "Isle of Paradise" is to this day untouched by commerce.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

THE PREDICTION OF DEATH.

Johann, famous astrologer, lay dead upon the floor of the tower room in his medievally constructed house. Shot through the temple, his head rested on an astrology book, opened at his own horoscope!

Prof. Fordney and Inspector Kelley found the door to the tower room had been battered in.

"It was locked," Sergt. Reynolds explained while the two men, with much puffing, regained their breath after the climb. "Had to force it. Guy committed suicide."

"Looks like it," Kelley agreed, observing the revolver by the body.

Prof. Fordney picked up a key two feet from the door. Did Johann lock himself in and then drop it there hoping to baffle the police? Had it fallen from the lock when Reynolds forced the door? Or was there another explanation?

After the body was removed Fordney lifted the massive book and studied Johann's horoscope. Blood where his head had rested obliterated some of the writing, but Kelley, peering over Fordney's shoulder, read the prediction on that date of the scientist's death, by suicide!

From half way down the winding stone steps Kelley called impatiently, "Hurry up, Joe!"

The horoscope book tucked under his arm, Fordney took a last look around. Blood on the floor, which had been hidden by the book, was the only remaining evidence of the tragedy.

"Coming," he answered.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Built-in furniture has an advantage all its own in that it can be so designed that it provides just the places the individual home mistress wants for particular articles and things. Cupboards for the bedroom may be installed along one entire side of a room, divided, perhaps, on each side of a window. These groups may house shelves, drawers and a large cupboard with doors which, when opened, reveal a bureau inside. Mirrors can be on the inside of the doors and a light may be installed in the soffit for greater convenience.

Young Society Ready to Start Busy Vacation

School Age Is Set to Have Many Parties.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE common belief that boys and girls come home from school to spend the Christmas holidays with their families is just a myth as far as the sons and daughters of socially prominent families are concerned. The students of prep school and college age do come home, but they don't spend much time with their families.

In fact, about the only time their families see them is at late breakfasts, for the popular youngsters are always bombarded by invitations to parties that keep them rushing about from the luncheon hour each day until after midnight.

For the last few weeks mothers have been forwarding invitations through the mail to their sons and daughters at school and the youngsters have been writing back acceptances. Beginning tomorrow and continuing until New Year's day, the calendar is crowded with important affairs for the school boys and girls, in addition to an equally busy schedule for the debutantes. Debutantes are not usually invited to the school affairs, but many of the boys of college age are asked to debut dances and balls.

Invite Alumni to School Dance.

One school party to which both students and alumni have been invited is the subscription dance to be given by the pupils of Miss Harris' school on the 27th at the Belden Stratford hotel. The school has always had an annual dance, but last year it gave a Christmas dance for charity and this one also is to be the means of increasing the philanthropy fund. The entire alumni list has been asked to attend and many of the parents of present or former pupils are planning to be present.

Among the boys who have accepted invitations are Walter and Hathaway Watson Jr., both of whom attended Miss Harris' before going off to St. Mark's to prepare for college. Walter is now at Harvard and his brother is in his last year at St. Mark's. Their mother, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, is active on the committee of arrange-

BARTER AND SAIL

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Capt. Hiram White sails his four-master ship, the Abigail White, in search of a ship filled with pearl oysters, sunk by a French captain before the world war in a lagoon in a South Sea island. Arlette Mordecai, the French captain's granddaughter, has brought him complete instructions for finding the ship. Arlette is accompanied by an English woman of title known as Ladybird in his crew are Adam Alden, an unemployed engineer, Roberta Millibank and Peter Cavan. Roberta's father died after his bank failed and Peter was his trusted employé. Henery, a cook hired up for his keep. Henery Shepard, backer of the venture, fills the boat with a cargo of his own choosing, including a lot of used cars and launches and plans to stop at certain ports to trade cargoes. One owner of an unused car sends his French chauffeur, Raoul, along. Ladybird, who is a naval officer's daughter, is made mate. The ship is seized by four stowaways on the high seas. A warning comes in over the radio about four bank robbers being at large and the captain realizes he and his crew are in their hands. After several days the bandits are overpowered and set adrift. The ship reaches Cape Town, where Henery's cargo is traded, through Peter Muller, a banker friend of Roberta's father, at a large profit. Their next destination is Sydney, Australia. Peter finds the robbers' loot hidden on the boat. The captain turns it over to the U. S. consul at Sydney. The cargo is discharged at Sydney and another picked up for delivery to Japan, where another profitable trade is made.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

A WELCOMED CARGO.

The Abigail White began to load a mixed cargo of Australian export products. She took on copper ingots and bars, zinc concentrates, leather, tin ingots, carboys of chemicals, and a vast amount of foodstuffs. There were also bales of textiles. Her cold storage compartment, where the iced fish had been, was scrubbed and cleaned and filled with tons of refrigerated mutton and fat.

They got away in a southerly buster and at the cost of distance Capt. Hiram stood off on a northeasterly course that he might get as far to windward as possible before encountering the hard prevailing winds to be expected from that quarter.

So here was another long voyage with a profitable cargo and one for which this time payment was guaranteed. The ship's routine settled down again. It looked as if their luck still led them.

Adam was the first to sight the land. He went aloft at sunset and caught the rim of the chrysanthemum empire spread daintily on the horizon. Then the faintly traced outline of Fujiyama drew its graceful cone against the sky.

Here was at least one group of Americans who were heartily in sympathy with the stalwart little empire when all the world was itching to spank this bad child of the league of nations family.

It was calm through the night, but at dawn they were sighted by a patrol boat that was on watch for them. Capt. Hiram hesitated to take a line lest it invalidate the letter of his contract. But the Japanese ranking officer promptly O. K.'d the agreement made with the commercial agent and took charge of the cargo.

This seemed to the schooner crowd a sporting thing to do. But it was the 9th of February and the Japanese big push that day started. Their cargo was badly wanted. There was threat of a boycott. At the easy price Japan would have gladly taken half a dozen such schooner loads of food, including the splendid mushroom tasting Australian milk, textiles, and am munitions materials.

They were towed in and quickly unloaded. Then Henery closed down on his fixed idea of barter again. "S'pos'n we send Muller a draft for his share in this venture. That's got nothing to do with us. Then let's trade out ours."

"What?" cried Capt. Hiram. "Trade out the first real money we touch on a voyage half round the world for Japanese products on spec?"

"That's the idee. What this country wants most is money to play their war game. And what they want least and are going to find it hardest to get rid of is the stuff they make here and can't use in their old war. For one thing it's sure to be boycotted. And for another, nobody wants it right now, anyhow. By the time we get back things may be loosened up and the market for Japanese stuff reopened."

"What sort of stuff?"

"All this junk they sell in Japanese shops at home. Silks and pottery and lacquered goods, paper, and all the dinky toys and carvings and puzzles and screens and things. China and glass. We could load her up for next to nothing right now."

"Hold on!" said the captain. "We still got something we could trade in."

"What's that?"

"Better hang on to some of that stuff, Hiram. If we happen to ground anywhere in or about this pearl lagoon it would come right handy to lighten her or tilt her clear."

"She can keep some of it, but I don't count on touching anything. They need iron here and they might even need rails as such, if they can make a good trade for their superfluous Jap store junk."

But this plan met with slight favor. The other members were averse to letting their first cash assets go back into cold storage again. In the end a compromise was made.

They found no difficulty about trading in their steel rails, which though worn ones were still in good condition. And they received a surprising value of such commodities as the country produced and had for it no intrinsic value and scarcely any foreign market at this moment.

Out of the money balance a draft was sent to the Mullers for the interest of their group. Henery sent another draft to take up his note with the manufacturer of the women's wear.

"I'll bet that fellow's eyes bulge out," he said.

The balance was worked out by Peter as due the ship. The delicate question then arose as to how it should be fairly allotted.

The whole commercial part of the venture had been entirely Henery's at the start. He had allowed Arlette's purchase commission and he had allowed Roberta a sales one for Capetown. From this point the interest had been proportionately Muller's and Henery's, with a freight rate due Capt. Hiram, who owned the vessel.

Arlette and Roberta had also subscribed their commissions so that their interest required working out pro rata as small shareholders. Strictly speaking, there was nothing due the others.

Ladybird seized on this point. "The trading part of it was never more than a means to get us on. That's all right. We couldn't have got started without. But Henery was never in on more than that."

"I'm satisfied," Henery said. "I got nothing to do with your treasure hunt and don't file any claim on it."

"Then what," asked Ladybird, "is the others' claim on it?"

Capt. Hiram said quietly: "What do you reckon is the claim of any unpaid crew aboard a treasure hunting vessel?"

"That's what I'm asking, Skipper," Ladybird said.

"Well, it is true we couldn't have got started without Henery. But all he asked was what he might make out of his barter scheme. The others were just as necessary in their way to help work the ship. We had no money to pay a crew and we couldn't sail the schooner without one."

Convention is a great thing to have perched on the kitchen stool as a guide to the things proper—but don't let it perch too high and rule the kitchen!

For instance, if there's been a bit of a slump in the department of the exchequer this year, or even if you simply have a yen for a change in the Christmas proceedings, don't let any one even suggest that willy-nilly there must be a turkey, duck, or even a chicken, or the day will be ruined. Quite as orthodox and proper, and every bit as palate teasing can be a Christmas roast beef, warmly stuffing in its own juices, or a roast pork loin roasted to lusciousness and served in holiday splendor with rosy, jellied apples.

Or if Christmas cranberries cry for the crunchy, flavorsome stuffings, there are many ways these may be enticed into Christmas dinners with nary a bird in the offing.

Golden lamb chops, shoulder of veal, beef roll, breast of lamb, crown roast of lamb, and spareribs—all offer endless possibilities and pockets into which puffy fillings may be stuffed.

The first recipe is for a dressed up meat treat which will do honor to all the traditional Yuletide fixings and yet leave the 1932 bank account in a gay and sprightly mood.

ROAST PORK LOIN WITH JELLIED APPLES.

1½ cups sugar.
Flour.
Watercress.
Cranberry jelly.

In ordering your loin have the butcher prepare it with the chine bone sawed loose from the ribs. With a damp cloth carefully wipe the meat, then dredge it with flour and rub with salt and pepper. Place on a rack in an uncovered roasting pan and place in a hot oven [480 degrees F.] to sear for fifteen minutes. Then reduce the heat to 325 degrees F. and continue roasting until done, allowing approximately thirty minutes per pound.

Meanwhile fix the apples by paring and coring them. Boil the sugar and water together until it spins a thread, then drop in the apples and cook until they are tender and transparent, but not soft. Drain out the apples and fill the centers with cranberry jelly and arrange on a hot plate around the pork loin. Decorate with watercress—a sprig perking up from each end.

CHRISTMAS ROAST BEEF.

A standing roast is the proper thing for holiday feasting—about a three rib roast filling the bill for six to eight diners. Prepare the roast by wiping with a damp cloth, then sprinkling with salt, allowing one-half teaspoon per pound. Now dust with flour and place, fat side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. About twenty minutes in a hot oven [500 degrees F.] will do to sear the piece. Then lower the heat and let it roast slowly at about 350 degrees F. until just at the correct amount of doneness. For a rare roast allow sixteen minutes to the pound, for a medium cut allow twenty-two minutes, and for a well done piece let it roast for thirty minutes to the pound. Now set your ingenuity to working and decorate the roast attractively but not too generously with big, raw, red cranberries on toothpicks. Spangle with parsley and serve up in state on a spanking hot platter.

SAUSAGE AND CHESTNUT STUFFING.

1 cup fresh white bread crumbs.
1 tablespoon minced parsley.
¼ teaspoon powdered thyme.
Salt and pepper.

Shell the chestnuts and cover with boiling salted water, simmering them for twenty minutes. Sizzle the onion in the butter until slightly brown, then add the meat and continue cooking slowly five minutes. Mash half of the cooked chestnuts and add together with the unmashed ones and the remaining ingredients.

Christmas Tale Made Real by Use of Creche

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Can a little child be made to see the story of the Christ Child by words alone? That far off Bethlehem of another age, so far in every way from the world our little boys and girls live in, can't be imagined by them without some help. We may say that the spirit of the story is the important thing to them, as it was to us. Yet, Mary and the Baby Jesus and the three wise men and the shepherds live to even us grownups visually, as well as in their significance. If we think of them as they appear in the beautiful old paintings made by the great early masters, how much more, then, do little children need something tangible to make this story live for them.

A beautiful Christmas custom devoutly followed in the old countries is the telling of the story of the first Christmas in figures—making a miniature manger scene, or crèche, as it is properly called. These tiny representations have a particular appeal for the littlest child. The familiar events of the Christmas story, the beautiful words of the Bible narrative, the simpler translations we make, the legends and the carols cannot all put together present to a child's imagination the spirit of Christmas and the age old scene as can a crèche.

The making of a crèche is not uncommon in this country today. Guided by a copy, perhaps on a Christmas card, of one of the early paintings, a mother and her children could very simply construct a representation of the scene in the manger. For the figures one may go to religious supply houses, the dime stores, or dress little dolls, or cut figures out.

Some of the results may seem crude, but I think any mother will perceive in her child from making a crèche an understanding of the spirit of Christmas that she can give him in no other way. The picture is all there—the Child and his adoring Mother, Joseph, the shepherds, or the wise men bearing gifts, perhaps the backdrop dark blue paper and cloth, the floor brown burlap, with hay, real or simulated, the stable a pasteboard box.

The whole thing can be as modest as your means permit, or as rich as your purse allows. The children will love it for its reality and homely, beautiful intimacy. If the crèche is lighted up for several nights before Christmas it can be the focal point of the Christmas preparations and festivities.

School Age Is Set to Have Many Parties.

ments for the party. Robert Hall McCormick III. and Garfield King, both of whom entered Yale this year after finishing at St. Mark's; Howard F. Gillette Jr., who went from St. Mark's to Harvard; Nelson L. Thomasson Jr., who is at Princeton this year; the Volney Fosters' boys, Volney W., Archibald and George, who are all at St. Mark's, are others who will be present. Miss Bonnie Jean Clark, the Sheldon Clarks' daughter, and Miss Jean Smith, the Harold C. Smiths' subdeb, both of whom attend Dobbs Ferry, are among the girls who have accepted.

Mrs. George A. Ranney is to be hostess at a large dinner before the dance for her daughter, Miss Cornelia Ranney, who will be at home for the holidays from the Masters school, and Mrs. Joseph McNulty is to give another dinner at her residence on Hawthorne place.

Miss Horton Is Engaged.

Mrs. Samuel Mayo Rinaker of Lake Forest is announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marjorie Horton, to Winston Elting, son of Victor Elting of Winnetka. Although Miss Horton's close friends have known of her engagement for some time, the official announcement is just now being made.

Miss Horton has been extremely popular in the younger circles since she made her debut at a chic Montmartre ball last winter at the Blackstone hotel. She attended Les Fougeres school in Switzerland and L'Ermitage in Versailles. She is blonde, slender and very pretty and was chosen to impersonate Marlene Dietrich in the Tableau Vivants given last winter at Orchestra hall for the benefit of Olivet institute.

Mr. Elting was graduated from Princeton in 1929 and later studied at the Beaux Arts in Paris. He is now with Holabird & Root.

Miss Mary Young, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Victor Young of 257 East Delaware place, arrived at home from Vassar on Saturday morning and rushed out to make her debut at a luncheon given at the Arts club for her and for Miss Caroline and Miss Barbara Bullard, with Mrs. Young and Mrs. Welch Dickinson as hostesses.

It was a gay informal party, and afterward the 32 debutantes who were guests were taken to see Ed Wynn's "Laugh Parade." Miss Young wore a soft gray woolen dress trimmed with sable, a brown and gray sailor hat and a corsage of brown orchids.

Although she is not to make a formal debut, she is on the list of debutantes and will attend the numerous parties to be given for the young people during the next two weeks. Her parents are planning to give a dinner for her on Thursday night before the Princeton Triangle club show.

Silver Screen Ball Gay Affair.

The Silver Screen ball on Friday night at the Drake hotel waxed gayer after the time the morning papers went to press. More than half of the 1,000 guests arrived after midnight, when the party began to take on a New Year's eve atmosphere, with the masques, capes, derbies, and other amusing costume accessories looking like the paper favors usually given to guests at parties to watch the old year out.

The greatest sensation was caused, not by any wearer of a costume, but by Miss Nancy Traylor, whose small white hands were made conspicuous by the application of black enamel on her finger nails. Nails have been done in deep reds and other colors lately, but most of the people at the ball had never seen blackened nails before. Miss Traylor wore a black and white gown.

The Crib society of St. Vincent's orphanage, of which Mrs. George D. McLaughlin is president, is letting the junior auxiliary of St. Vincent's take charge of the annual Christmas party at the orphanage this year.

It is to be held on Wednesday afternoon and the young women are planning to make it an especially happy occasion for the orphans. A Santa Claus has volunteered his services and there will be toys and refreshments for everybody.

Howards to Be Here for Holidays.

The Howell Howards sailed on Friday for New York after a six weeks' European trip and they are expected to reach Evanston on Christmas eve to spend the holiday with their three children who have been with Mrs. Howard's mother, Mrs. Edward Hines, during the absence of their father and mother. Mr. and Mrs. Howard and their children will be returning to their home in Dayton shortly after the holidays and they probably will go to Aiken for the late winter, as is their custom.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bancroft Hammond [Elizabeth Williamson] of Peterboro, Ont., arrived in Chicago on Saturday with their infant son to spend the holidays with Mrs. Hammond's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Charles S. Williamson of 1517 Dearborn parkway.

Mrs. John Irving Shaw [Barbara King] and her infant daughter returned to the Shaw's new apartment at 1448 Lake Shore drive from Passavant hospital on Saturday. The baby was born at Passavant on Dec. 7.

Miss Mary Kay Downs returned on Saturday from the Finch school in New York to spend the Christmas holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Downs of the Pearson hotel.

Velvet Details Make Delightful Christmas Gifts

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The eternal triangle of the Christmas gift that is different, inexpensive and chic for the young lady who seems to have everything is a chronic holiday problem. If you've got one of these triangles on your hands, choose one of the new velvet details that are all the rage in Paris right now. To be smart this season, Paris says it with velvet.

You Can't Slump and Be Attractive, Too.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You can talk all you want about the pounds you've taken off, or put on, but you are your own admiring audience only so long as your posture lacks "snap."

Don't come and tell me later that I didn't tip you off to this new idea in figure beauty. I'm telling you now that the most striking thing about today's beautiful body is its posture—standing, sitting, dancing, in movement of any kind. It must have "snap." It must look smart, move smartly, and in every line be the last word in efficient management.

The idea of posturizing the body into beautiful lines isn't new at all. Only the fashionable world is making it appear new at the moment by struggling to acquire beauty for the silhouette this way. If it can do it, you can, too. Here's one striking beauty feature as free to you as it is to the pampered rotogravure pets!

This current revival of an old beautifying doctrine comes at a well timed moment. You haven't so much to spend for clothes. Last year's things may be doing duty this year. But what of it? Here's a chance to put a new girl inside of the old things and fool the gimlet eyed observers. Style, you know just as well as I do, is not a matter of fur pelts or dress materials. It's not a matter of changes. It's the personal bearing of the lady herself.

This is exactly why some women in jersey cloth look more the million dollars than some in gold brocade. And I'm not just saying that to make you feel good about having to wear less expensive clothes. It's the gospel truth, that style is not a matter of clothes; it's a matter of bearing.

Look at the two illustrations given here. Clothe in your mind's eye Miss Slump with a $350 gown. Put a $9.50 one on the other figure. And don't ask which one would get the "eye" as she walked across a room.

Now, I've got you limbered up considerably with last week's stretching exercises. Keep at them, but before you go a step further check up on that posture of yours. Get out your tape measure again. Use it in slumping attitude. Then in the erect. See the difference in actual inches as you measure.

Jealous Mate Needs Big Dose of Wife's Praise

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Deeply Hurt" tells a tale of matrimonial woe based on the unreasonable goings on of a jealous mate. The woman can't answer the door to a peddler if her husband happens to be at home without a scene. Because the woman hates to let the poor, doorbell ringing unemployed down without an encouraging word she is nice to them. The ice man, the grocery boy, all of the back door callers seem to inspire the same jealous rage.

And if the two of them go on a party, heaven help "Deeply Hurt" if she bears down on any of the gentlemen present with a pleasant smile. The woman is 28, has three sons, and has been married ten years. Her husband is older. Except for this jealous affliction he seems to be all right, generous, loyal, true. No vices.

But the woman is begining to think any vice would be easier to take than the one her married life is bridled with. She now hates social affairs of any kind. She can't act natural, for hers is a friendly, whole hearted liking of people by nature.

What to do with a mate like that? Deserting the ship isn't the answer, D. H.! Nor withdrawing at your age from all social contact. There's a better way out of the difficulty.

The person who suffers that kind of jealous nature is the victim of a pretty bad inferiority complex. All jealousy is based on a feeling of unsureness of self in competition with others.

Now, the trick is to set about raising that gentleman's opinion of himself. Tell him twenty times a day that he's the world's seventh wonder. Grit your teeth and tell it, if need be. Tell him he's the smartest, the kindest, the most considerate man in captivity. Tell him he's the best looking. Whether he is or not doesn't matter. If he's that to you, that's all the proof he'll ask.

You have a patient on your hands, so give him all the spirit-resuscitating medicine in the cabinet. The trouble generally in handling a jealous patient is that the victim goes off in a sulk, or a rage, or behaves as if her heart were broken. Forget the dramatics, sister, and give the man the medicine his soul craves.

Sports Effect Puts a Thrill in Accessories

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Since it was fairly inevitable that the procrastinating shoppers would stage a big commotion when they finally woke up and found out about these last few shining hours, and though it is a bit disconcerting to be swallowed in the crowd, to see the corner traffic cops get all excited and hot and bothered about the milling mobs, it does seem good to be pushed and shoved and be one of the army after the late arid spell of slow shopping.

The younger crowd seems to have planned for this year . . . you will see all sorts of indoor and out of doors collections, especially assembled for the arriving hordes of vacationists. Junior clothes, tricky frocks, hats, snooty, daring, slim dance frocks, short fur coats, and costume accessories are noticeably festive and desirable, with price tags that almost blush with modest sums inscribed thereon. But the things that will engage your wandering and slightly jaded shopping appetite are the neck and throat gadgets.

Most of the collections stress daring youthful things that will transform a dull dress into a frock of great distinction. Look for the fetching tie and cuff sets that are available in all pastel tints, high colors, and made of silk. The set consists of a demure cat's whisker-ish tie looped through a noose of stitched silk, a brief scant little nothing that will tie tightly around the neckline of smart wool daytime dresses.

The newest things you can wrap for a Christmas gift to please the youngest sports enthusiast are any of the wooly fuzzy neck scarfs. These are made of angora wool lace in some of the most unusual combinations of colors and patterns that any one has seen. You can buy brilliant flippant affairs of four or five colors, or powdery blues and dusty pinks, and clear sunny citrons and pale sapphire blue . . . the smartest scarfs in the world for rabbits' wool and ostrich cloth wool dresses.

One shop has gone a bit mad over imported scarfs . . . they will show some hectically designed ski scarfs from Austria, the kind that loop around the neck and then use practically every gawdy shade of yarn available for good eye filling patterns and breezy fringe borders. Then they have ready for instant approval all kinds of hand knitted sets, the beret, mittens, and scarf, and until you see these good looking trios you can't imagine just how much of a kick any particular young lady will get out of them . . . for instance, one white set has penny size red dots splashed over the mittens, around the cap, and across the ends of the scarf, another style goes in squares for color contrast, and the third, quite frankly, sponsors the wildest stripes, bars, and zigzags.

Something else that will wangle a cheer out of the parental finance committee are the clever little detachable, separate blouses that help the very formal dinner gown do double duty for a dinner date.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The first of the preholiday music appeared yesterday afternoon, when the Swedish Choral club sang "The Messiah" at Orchestra hall under the direction of Harry T. Carlson. First, in time, it will probably take a position well up toward the front in merit as well.

No religious composition is better known or better loved than this great oratorio by Handel. It was peculiarly fitting then that such an excellent singing organization as the Swedish Choral club should list it as an annual performance, for both the knowledge of and affection for the score were evident. The club sings with a sturdy tone which is also a youthful tone. It is well controlled by its conductor, its members have learned the art of projecting the text, and text and melody combined into dramatic expression. Handel, among his other gifts, was a great dramatist of music, and the more closely "The Messiah" is analyzed, the more evident is its dramatic force.

Four soloists of merit also took part in the rendition, at all times competent and occasionally reaching the heights. Elsa Harthan Arendt, a wise and experienced artist, was the soprano; Gladys Haven, contralto, made an excellent effect; Charles Seares, whose public appearances so far have not been many, would seem to be the most promising young tenor of the past several years; Frederic Baer, bass, is one of the best in the country of those who sing the low-voiced parts in oratorio. Members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, together with Stabley Martin, organist, performed the instrumental section of the score with expert ease.

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks and New York Americans played the first scoreless tie of the National League season tonight before the smallest Sunday night hockey crowd of the year at Madison Square Gardens. Only 5,000 saw the teams end an overtime period deadlocked 0 to 0.

It was a dull game with only half a dozen outbursts of action. One of them came in the overtime period when Nick Wasnic of the Americans and Teddy Graham, Chicago defense man, clashed and Graham felled his opponent from a blow on the head with his stick. Both were given major penalties. Wasnic was not able to take his place in the penalty box.

The Blackhawks stuck to their defensive game most of the way. They wouldn't open up and the Americans couldn't. The only shot that went into the net was one by Tommy Cook after the whistle had blown for an off side.

It was the second tie of the season between the teams. They played a 1 to 1 deadlock at Chicago early last month.

New Line Fails.

The Americans started a new combination of forwards, but it didn't get far through the stubborn Chicago defense. The Hawks fared as poorly and there was no real action until the lines changed. Then Martin slipped Phillips a good pass for the first real shot.

March intercepted a pass and started a sprint down the boards, which brought the first penalty as Ayers tried to stop him. As the Hawks rushed in March got his stick caught in McVeigh's skate and was given a tripping penalty.

Cook got the puck on McFadyen's rebound in front of a half open goal, but sent his shot wide. Martin followed with a solo that took him in close but didn't disturb Gardiner much. The teams settled down to a snail's pace through the last five minutes of the period.

Hawks on Defense.

The teams started the third period with a rush. A tripping penalty to Jenkins stirred up action, but the Americans' four man attack was unable to pass Chicago's defense. Himes gave Gardiner his only hard stop just after Jenkins left the coop.

Passes from Martin and Dutton to McVeigh twice took the Americans in close and they went on to show the more aggressive hockey, but Thompson and Abel did some good work in halting them. Thompson also took the first Chicago shot in nearly ten minutes and sent it wide.

Dutkowski was banished for tripping charge and the Hawks launched a futile four man attack. With the sides even, a lucky break gave Himes the puck close in and he sent out a perfect pass to Sheppard, but the latter missed the puck completely as he came in off balance.

Gardiner Saves Well.

The Phillips-McVeigh-Martin line kept plugging away, with only occasional half hearted returns from the Hawks. Couture and Mackenzie barely missed a goal and on the return Sheppard's pass put Wasnic in close. Gardiner dived out and spilled Wasnic, causing the shot to hit the post.

Wasnic and Graham clashed in a corner and were given major penalties. Graham broke his stick over Wasnic's head and Convey had to take Wasnic's place in the coop. Wasnic was carried to the dressing room.

Couture stick handled neatly in close and Worters came far out to stop him. Thompson's rebound shot was wild. The last minute was as slow as any in the whole game.

Wildcats to Meet Strong Defense Tonight.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Northwestern, Notre Dame's arch rival in four branches of major competition, will come to the field house tomorrow night for the 22d basketball game between the two since 1915.

Notre Dame will be seeking its 20th straight victory and its third straight over the Purple. Northwestern was beaten twice by Notre Dame last season, once by one point, 22 to 21. The hero of that game was Ed Krause, giant football tackle, who returned to the Notre Dame squad Thursday night in time to score three points in the Illinois Wesleyan game.

Two Men Peril Wildcats.

Northwestern finds itself in the rôle of underdog again, principally because of the presence of Krause and Joe Voegele in the Notre Dame lineup. Voegele has been the chief scoring factor in Notre Dame's two victories this season. Against Albion in the first game of the year he scored 20 points.

Notre Dame will start a veteran five against Northwestern, which has only two letter men, Capt. Joe Reiff and Elmer Johnson, center, around which to build its contenders for the Big Ten conference championship.

Northwestern, in its victory over Pittsburgh Friday night, displayed a smooth working attack, but Notre Dame's defense is superior to any encountered by the Wildcats this year. Illinois Wesleyan was able to score only 12 points against this defense Thursday night.

Name Starting Lineups.

Notre Dame's starting lineup will include Krause at center, Voegele and Johnny Jordan, the only sophomore in the varsity five, at forwards; and Capt. Baldwin, one of the best guards in the middle west, and Leo Crowe at the guards. Against this array, Northwestern will start Reiff and Don Brewer, a six foot sophomore, at forwards; Johnson at center, and Ken Moonshower and Nelson Culver at guards.

The game has resulted in more local interest than any basketball game here in years. It will mark the first time in recent seasons that the student body has had an opportunity to see a game of this series. The students do not leave the campus on the holiday vacation until tomorrow. Six thousand students and townspeople are expected to see the game.

N. U. Trails in Series.

Notre Dame holds a two to one lead over Northwestern in the basketball series. It has won 14 of the games and Northwestern only seven.

NORTHWESTERN.		NOTRE DAME.
Reiff	L. F.	Voegele
Brewer	R. F.	Jordan
Johnson	C.	Krause
Culver	L. G.	Baldwin
Moonshower	R. G.	Crowe

OLD NOTRE DAME STARS LOSE, 7 TO 0, IN CHARITY GAME

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Former football stars of Notre Dame were defeated, 7 to 0, by an all-star team selected from other schools, in a game played here today for charity.

Benny La Presta, St. Louis university half back, caught a punt in the third quarter and raced 55 yards for the only touchdown scored in the game. Then he place kicked for the extra point.

Joe Savoldi, full back, was the big threat of the Notre Dame team. His teammates included Moon Mullins, Johnny O'Brien, Vik Twomey, Kassis, Yarr, Nash, Maxwell and Christman. Members of the other team included Moss, left end, and Purvis, half back, both formerly of Purdue.

St. Louis university, the University of Missouri, and Texas and Washington university also were represented on the team.

Wood Breaks Par in Coast Golf Victory

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., pro, won the Pasadena open golf tournament with a 278 total, which gave him $1,000 in prize money. He was six under par for the 72 holes.

Wood played a consistent game, touring the 18 hole course in 69 strokes for the first, second, and last rounds. He matched par with a 71 on the other 18 this morning.

It was Wood's second victory in the Pasadena open and his second consecutive championship of the 1932 coast season. He came here fresh from a victory in the San Francisco open.

Two Chicago pros—Eddie Loos and Harry Cooper—finished in a tie for second place, four strokes behind Wood with cards of 282, or two strokes under par. Each collected $500 prize money. Final score:

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

NOW that the baseball trade winds have quieted down let's take a look at the new faces you will find on the college football fronts next season.

Although there still remains one important game of the 1932 season—Pittsburgh vs. Southern California—to be played, the greatest turnover of coaches in football history already has taken place. The list includes some of the game's foremost teachers as well as scores of assistants. The unemployment situation in football coaching has become acute.

Many young men graduating from physical education courses find themselves unable to obtain a job because of minimum age limits but at least one coach, A. A. Stagg, finds his way barred because of maximum age restrictions.

The latest coaching vacancy occurred at Yale with the resignation of Dr. Mal Stevens, who turned in a victory percentage of about .867 in his five years as leader at New Haven. In addition to Yale, positions are now available at Chicago, Stanford, Washington, Fordham, and Holy Cross. There was a vacancy at Carnegie Tech until yesterday when Howard Harpster was appointed to succeed Robert N. Waddell. There will be others before spring practice rolls around.

While Jimmy Phelan has not been released at Washington, he has announced a desire to work elsewhere. So has Tom Keady of Western Reserve. Pop Warner has transferred from Stanford to Temple and it is reported that Fred Swan, line coach at Wisconsin, is ready to serve as Pop's assistant. He learned football from Warner at Stanford.

Students at Kentucky have requested the president of the university to release Harry Gamage. Maj. Sasse has completed his period of service at West Point and will be succeeded by Lieut. Davidson. Adrian Lindsay will start his first full year as head coach at Kansas. He replaced Bill Hargiss in midseason.

There will be no changes in the Western conference except at Chicago.

Some of the vacancies have been created by the coaches themselves because of business pressure or a desire to change locations, but most of them are attributable to too many defeats.

Which reminds me of a recent conversation with Slip Madigan of St. Mary's college, California. It was a few days before St. Mary's game with Alabama at San Francisco. Slip was bemoaning the loss of two or three of his leading players and was pessimistic over the chances of closing the season with a victory.

In an effort to comfort him in his grief we suggested that any coach who had turned in as fine a record as his need not worry about a defeat or two.

THE TRIBUNE on Jan. 1 will conduct its third annual junior ski meet at Riis park. It is encouraging to observe that the event is appealing more and more to American born youths. For several years the sport in this section has been monopolized by the Swedes, the Finns and the Norwegians.

This, of course, is natural. Scandinavians are born on skis. A Norseman who cannot ski is regarded as a suspicious character and is dealt with accordingly. Usually he is exiled to the bleak wastes of Siberia.

American born athletes have more than held their own in most winter sports. They made a clean sweep in ice skating at the Olympic games and carted away most of the honors at bob sled riding. Only in skiing and hockey do we seem to lag.

Pitt Leaves for Game with So. California

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Pittsburgh's Panthers, beaten twice since 1927 in Rose Bowl football games, tonight headed for the west, carrying eastern hopes for a reversal of football tradition in the conflict with Southern California Jan. 2.

The east has not won a Rose Bowl game since 1920. In that year came Harvard's 7 to 6 victory over Oregon.

Time to Get Acclimated.

Profiting from the experience of past campaigns, Coach Jock Sutherland's squad of 36 leaves home two weeks ahead of game time—instead of one as in time bygone—with the idea of getting in 10 days of hard workouts at Tucson, Ariz. In 1927, Pitt was turned back, 7-6, by Stanford, and in 1930 was overwhelmed by Southern California, 47 to 14.

Forced by snow and cold weather to hold their recent workouts indoors, the Panthers met the beef and brawn of an alumni eleven on the armory floor yesterday and won, 7 to 0, on Heinie Weisenbaugh's 55 yard dash.

That made it three games in a row for Pitt by the margin of not more than seven points. The other games were with Carnegie Tech and Stanford. Before that, they played a scoreless tie with Nebraska. The Panthers' lack of high scoring punch, it is pointed out, is offset by a heavy line against which only four touchdowns have been scored this year.

Pitt Weak Against Passes.

Pitt's defense appeared weak yesterday, however, when the grads executed Southern California passes that caught the varsity flat footed. Only four out of eighteen attempted were complete, but these netted 125 yards and the Panthers looked helpless as the ball shot down the center

CARNEGIE NAMES HARPSTER HEAD FOOTBALL COACH

Steffen Made Member of Athletic Council.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Howard Harpster, quarter back of Carnegie Tech's great football team of 1928, is coming back to his alma mater next spring. As head coach he succeeds Bob Waddell, who resigned last week after holding the job for seven years.

Selection of Harpster, who called signals for one of the best teams in Tech's history, was announced by Clarence Overend, athletic director, after a meeting of the athletic council today. Since his graduation Harpster has coached the Geneva college team of Beaver Falls, Pa., with remarkable success.

Steffen on Committee.

Harpster's ascension brought a definite turn in the status at Tech of Judge Walter P. Steffen, advisory coach, who has been associated with the institution's athletic council for 19 years. Steffen will become a member of the football committee of the athletic council and will not be active in coaching of the squad.

The new coach is expected to follow the style of football always played by the Tartans, a combination of systems used by Notre Dame and the University of Chicago. No announcement was made as to the length of the contract, nor Harpster's salary.

Who is to succeed Harpster at Geneva also was not known.

UP TO HARPSTER.

Judge Walter P. Steffen last night said that he will continue to assist with the coaching duties at Carnegie Tech next season as he has for the last two years, but emphasized that Howard Harpster will be the head coach of the team and that his services will be given only in an advisory capacity.

"The responsibility will be Harpster's entirely," Judge Steffen said. "I will make trips to Pittsburgh as I have since I was relieved of the position as head coach, but Harpster will be the coach. If Carnegie Tech wins, it will be his team that wins and he will get the credit for victory. If the team loses, it will be Harpster's team that loses."

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The professional football championship of the United States is the property of the Chicago Bears. They won that title last night at the Chicago Stadium by defeating the Spartans of Portsmouth, O., 9 to 0, before a near capacity crowd of 11,198. Officials announced that the gross receipts were in excess of $15,000.

For three periods the teams waged a scoreless duel, in which the Bears had the better of the gains in yardage. Then with ten minutes to play, Bronko Nagurski tossed a short pass to Red Grange, who was standing in the Spartan end zone.

The touchdown was all that the Bears needed to assure them of the championship. Tiny Engebretsen, however, place kicked the ball between the wooden uprights and into the mezzanine for the full value of Red's score.

Safety Follows Touchdown.

Then, just before the end, Mule Wilson of the Spartans, ready to punt from behind his own goal line, fumbled Clare Randolph's pass from center and the ball rolling out of the end zone automatically gave the new champions two more points.

Grange and Nagurski received the roaring tribute of the crowd, which had begun to believe that for a third time the Bears and Spartans were to play a tie game, but it was Dick Nesbitt who presented the scoring opportunity. Nesbitt raced back from his position at defensive right half back, leaped high into the air and intercepted a forward pass by Ace Gutowsky. He came down running and, with the aid of excellent blocking, carried the ball to Portsmouth's 7 yard line.

Bronko Pounds Away.

The ball was within two yards of the north side lines. Under the ground rules adopted for the game because of the abbreviated gridiron—60 yards between goal lines—the Bears were permitted to bring the ball out 15 yards, losing a down, of course, the penalty they would have suffered had they wasted a play crossing the side line.

On the next play Nagurski smashed through Portsmouth's left guard for six yards. Again Bronko hit the line, but the Spartans hurled him back with a loss of a yard. It now was fourth down and goal to gain. Nagurski again took the ball, but this time he stepped back and threw a short line pass to Grange, who fell in scoring territory as he caught the ball.

Clark Protests Score.

The touchdown immediately was protested by Coach Potsy Clark of Portsmouth, who rushed to the field shouting that Nagurski was not five yards behind the line of scrimmage and that the forward pass was illegal. Referee Bobby Cahn of New York ruled that Bronko had complied with the rules.

Nesbitt and Keith Molesworth of the Bears, and Gutowsky of Portsmouth repeatedly kicked over the goal lines so that the punt receivers had no opportunity to bring the ball down the field.

The playing field also was not to the liking of John Doehring, the Bears' long distance forward passer, whose first throw nearly landed in the mezzanine. However, the playing conditions met with the approval of the fans. The game was completed in almost record time, and although the yard lines were not marked the spectators had no difficulty following the progress of the ball.

Spartan Attack Repulsed.

The Spartans threatened several times in the first half, but their best opportunity came in the final minute of the second quarter. Had they capitalized then the championship might have been carried back to Ohio. This opening was created when John Cavoskie intercepted a forward pass by Carl Brumbaugh and raced 30 yards to the Bears' 6 yard line.

Glenn Presnell, who was the outstanding ground gainer for the Spartans, hit the center of the line for a yard. Gutowsky followed with a yard at guard. Presnell and Gutowsky completed the series of four plunges, but they still were short of the goal and the ball changed hands. Before

FEEHAN AND RIDGE WIN 1ST VICTORIES IN K. OF C. LEAGUE

West Division Five Beats Hennepin, 27-25.

Surprise victories by Feehan in the west division and Ridge in the south end division, neither of whom had won a game previously, provided the features of yesterday's play in the Knights of Columbus basketball league.

Feehan, with three regulars out of the game because of illness, threw a makeshift lineup on the floor which nosed out Hennepin-Shields, league champion, 27 to 25. Led by Condon and Fleming, Feehan piled up a 10 point lead in the first few minutes, only to have Hennepin pull ahead n' the half. In the closing minutes, however, another rally scored enough points to stave off a desperate finish by the losers, who scored four points in the last 30 seconds.

Schroeder Goes on Trial in Skate Meet Tomorrow

Eddie Schroeder, Chicago's candidate for the world's ice skating championship at the next meet next month in Norway, will be on trial tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium. He will seek to prove he is more worthy of the place on the all-American team than Ed Murphy and Oneil Farrell, both of whom will compete with him in races at 5,000, 1,500, and 500 meters.

Schroeder is pitting youth and stamina against experience and strategy. He is taking a chance of weakening his reputation rather than strengthening it.

That Farrell and Murphy will be skating their best is evident by the remarkable time they have been making in their daily workouts. Farrell was clocked yesterday while skating a practice 500 meters at 45.5 seconds, which was the same time he made in the world meet last season.

Helen Bina, national women's champion and captain of Uncle Sam's 1932 women's team, will appear in a 1,000 meter race against time. Miss Bina hopes to create a world's record. She holds various local titles and distance records. Helen beat out Kitty Kline for the national championship in a skate-off in which both collapsed at the finish.

All the outstanding racers in Chicago are tuning up for the Stadium's big program, on which nine open events for class skaters are carded. Two races for class A, one each for classes A, B, C, and intermediate, and two sprint events for women in class A and B will be held.

St. Carthage Stages Upset in C.Y.O. Loop

St. Carthage joined the favorites in the Catholic Youth Organization basketball race yesterday by defeating the Corpus Christi five at St. Elizabeth's gymnasium, 22 to 18. It was St. Carthage's first league game.

At Mount Carmel gymnasium a potential champion was revealed in St. Clara as it bowled over St. Philip Neri, 25 to 7, holding its opponents to one field goal. Mary Queen of Heaven, league champions; St. Mel's, and Queen of Angels also came through the second round safely.

In the lightweight division St. Brendan's, quarter-finalist last year, scored its second straight victory by defeating St. Nicholas of Tolentine, 27 to 15.

Alexander Tops A. L. Batting Lists

First Baseman Dale Alexander of Boston won the 1932 individual batting championship of the American league with .367, twenty-three points below the mark set by Al Simmons last year. Three points below Alexander is Jimmy Foxx of the Athletics with .364. Foxx was third in runs scored with 151, first in home runs with 58, only two below Ruth's all time record of 60, and first in total bases with 438.

Lou Gehrig, one of the most powerful factors in the Yankees' championship victory, finished third with .349 and was followed by Heinie Manush of Washington, who registered .342, and Ruth with .341.

Veterans at Top.

All five men who led the fight for individual honors are veterans. Myril Hoag of New York, reserve outfielder, topped Alexander's mark by three points, reaching .370 in 54 times at bat, while Ed Coleman of Philadelphia in 73 times up tied Manush's record of .342. However, these two youngsters were overshadowed by the brilliant work of Roger Cramer, also of the A's, who was forced out of the game in midseason with injuries after he tied the world's record of six hits in six times at bat in a nine inning game and had established a figure of .336 for 384 times at bat in 92 games.

Other young players, but not recruits, who distinguished themselves and assisted their clubs materially, were Chalmer Cissell and Joseph Vosmik of Cleveland, who batted .315 and .312, respectively; William Sullivan, Chicago, with .316; Gerald Walker of Detroit, who hit .323 in 126 games and 480 times at bat; Irving Burns of St. Louis, who in 150 games scored 111 runs and crashed 52 extra base hits.

Goslin Gets Five in Five.

No batting records were broken and only one tied, the performance of Cramer, who on June 20 in Chicago made six singles in six times up in a nine inning game. On July 10 Leon Goslin made five hits, two of them triples, in five times at bat, against an assortment of New York pitchers, and in the second game of Aug. 19 Simmons also made "five in five" in a nine inning battle against Pitchers Hudlin and Harder of Cleveland.

McMillen, former University of Illinois and Chicago Bears football player, will hop into the ring to battle Ray Steele, the German from California. They will go one fall with an hour time limit.

McMillen beat Kampfer because he allowed Hans to wear himself out by his offensive efforts. However, in Steele he is facing a craftier opponent.

Both Steele and McMillen are good gate attractions all over the country. In two matches each with Jim Londos in Madison Square Garden, the total gate was near the $250,000 mark. The winner of tomorrow's match probably will meet Jim Londos.

Joe Stecher, still best of those who use the body scissors, will take on Joe DeVito in the semi-windup. After a year's layoff, Stecher has shown flashes of the form that gave him the title three times.

Another scissors expert from Nebraska, Paul Jones, will meet Stanislaus Lurik of Chicago. Pat O'Shocker, Utah Irishman, returns to Chicago after a long absence to wrestle Dorna Ostapavich of Kansas City. The other bout is between Jack Smith of Chicago and Sid Nabors of Georgia.

Field Artillery Defeats Culver Poloists, 4 to 3½

Led by Lieut. Pachl, who scored three goals, the 124th Field Artillery Blacks defeated the Culver Military academy polo team, 4 to 3½, yesterday morning at the field artillery armory.

Detroit Beats Bruins, 2 to 1; Players Riot

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—(AP)—A five minute free for all fist fight brought to an uproarious climax here tonight a National league hockey match between the Detroit Red Wings and the Boston Bruins, the Wings winning the hockey game, 2 to 1, and claiming an even break in the fisticuffs that followed.

Hardly had the final gong ended the game when the teams dropped their sticks and began swinging fists. Substitutes clambered over the boards and joined in, battling all over the ice of Olympia arena, while a crowd of 5,000 spectators stood on seats and roared.

Fight in Corridors.

Referees were unable to separate the squads but finally, with the assistance of team managers, dragged them off the ice. The battle went on in the corridors, until arena guards broke it up sending the men to their dressing rooms.

The fight climaxed a rough, bruising game in which the heavy Boston team only once was able to crack a stubborn Detroit defense, after the Wings had piled up two goals in the first and second periods, Wiseman and Sorrell scoring. Barry scored for Boston in the second period but the Detroit defense turned back every drive after that.

Thirteen Penalties Called.

Thirteen penalties were called, one a major to Joe Lamb, Bruin wingman, for slashing Doug Young, Detroit defense man, and another a 10 minute banishment for Ebbie Goodfellow, Detroit center, for delaying the game. Both squads were in a fighting mood throughout the regular match, but waited for the final whistle before starting the fisticuffs.

EAST FOOTBALL SQUAD GATHERS AT N. U. TODAY

Hanley and Kerr Take Team West Tonight.

Dyche stadium at Northwestern university will be the assembling point today for 22 football stars of the middle west and east, who will hold their first workout as members of the East football team which plays the West eleven in the annual Shrine benefit game at San Francisco, Jan. 2.

The players have been recruited from 12 schools by Coaches Dick Hanley of Northwestern and Andy Kerr of Colgate, who for the last five years have been co-coaches of the eastern squad. The schools represented are Illinois, Northwestern, Michigan, Purdue, Yale, Cornell, Colgate, Brown, Fordham, Minnesota, Notre Dame and Pennsylvania. Eleven players were selected from the east and eleven from the middle west.

Team Leaves Tonight.

This year's team is the eighth to be taken west for the charity game in which all proceeds are turned over to the Shrine hospital for crippled children in San Francisco. Each player receives a blanket and wrist watch. The coaches donate their services. The series of games now stand, four victories for the west and three for the east.

All players selected have been ordered to report at Dyche stadium at 2 o'clock today, at which time uniforms will be issued and a short practice held. Most of the players from the eastern section of the country were scheduled to arrive in a group in charge of Coach Kerr this morning. They will make their headquarters at the Palmer house.

The midwest players will go direct to Evanston, where they will assemble at the North Shore hotel. The entire group will leave over the Northwestern railroad tonight en route to Palo Alto, Cal., where headquarters will be maintained at Stanford university.

Sarazen Voted Outstanding Athlete in '32

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—The honor of being recognized as the outstanding American athletic performer of 1932 goes by popular ballot to Gene Sarazen, holder of the American and British open championships.

Sarazen's name today topped the list of individual stars voted upon in the second annual nation-wide poll of sports editors and writers, conducted by the Associated Press. The poll carried no restrictions as to amateur or professional and was open for the fullest expression of opinion by the experts.

Sarazen's vote gave the professional golfer a convincing margin over his closest rivals—Ellsworth Vines, world tennis champion; Eddie Tolan, Olympic sprint king, and Jimmie Foxx, new major league home run leader.

Out of a total of 284 votes cast, Sarazen received 52, or nearly 20 per cent. Tolan yielded second place to Vines ina close finish, decided by the last few votes, giving the tennis star 36 and the Negro sprinter 33. Foxx was fourth with 32.

Among the football performers, Harry Newman, Michigan's quarter back, received the most attention, with a total of 12 votes. Two coaches, Howard Jones and Hunk Anderson, each got one vote.

The 1932 poll marked a new low for professional boxing. The only champion apparently held in much esteem is Tony Canzoneri, lightweight titleholder, who polled eight votes. Only one vote was cast for Jack Sharkey, the heavyweight champion.

Bears Capture Pro Football Championship

Neither team attempted drop kicks nor place kicks although each was in scoring distance. This form of attack was banned by agreement.

Hard, Accurate Tackling.

The line play and the open field tackling were accurate and hard. Both teams took advantage of the firm dirt, which covered the terrazza floor of the Stadium, to get the best results from their running plays. Grange was knocked out in the first quarter, but he recovered in time to return to assist the Bears to their first championship since 1924, which was one year before Grange completed his competition for Illinois and cast his lot with the professionals. Joe Kopcha, regular guard, was injured in the last period.

The game was played with a minimum of penalty. Portsmouth received the only major loss when it was set back 15 yards in the last period for holding. Previously the Spartans were penalized three times for offside. The Bears were offside once and lost a total of 15 yards more for extra time out and for delay. Two of the Spartans' five yard penalties, for incompleted forward passes in a series, led indirectly to the safety.

Lets Pass Escape.

The Spartans were trailing, 7-to 0, and incompleted passes set them back to their own 5 yard line on a fourth down. Wilson then let the pass from Randolph slip through his fingers, the ball bouncing out to the end zone for two points for the new champions.

The Bears made eight first downs to five for Portsmouth. The Spartans attempted 12 forward passes, of which two were completed for a total of 28 yards. Five were intercepted. Three of the Bears' 16 forward passes were completed for a gain of 18 yards. Included was the winning touchdown pass from Portsmouth's 2 yard line. Three of the Bears' passes were intercepted.

Last night's victory gave the Bears a total of seven for the season. They were defeated once, by Green Bay, 2 to 0, and six other contests ended in ties. The Spartans, with six victories and two defeats, finished in third place in the National league, a step behind Green Bay, who had held the championship for three years.

Tad Jones May Return to Yale as Grid Coach

Yale's trouble was presumed to be a rash of systems, Notre Dame, Warner and the old Jones program of power plays. To further confuse the wealth of material at New Haven, Benny Friedman dropped in last year with his theories on passing offenses. Under Tad Jones, if he is re-hired, it is believed innovations will be discarded and one system adhered to.

In addition to Jones, there are, however, other candidates who would accept the small pay check [the entire coaching staff is limited to a total of $19,000 for five men] for the prestige it would give. Included in this group are Reggie Root, Red Blaik, who probably would resign from the Army if given the position; Widdy Neale, brother of Greasy Neale, and Adam Walsh, who coached the line under Stevens.

Canadian-American Hockey League Cut to Five Clubs

Boston, Mass., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The Canadian-American Hockey league today returned to a five club basis, the Springfield Indians dropping out of the circuit after their owner, Col. John S. Hammond of the New York Rangers, failed to come to a satisfactory agreement with the rink owners in Springfield. The clubs now in the league are Boston, Philadelphia, Providence, New Haven, and Quebec.

FOX A. C. ENTERS 13 SKIERS; EYES TEAM TROPHY

2 Champions to Compete in Advanced Classes.

The Fox Athletic club, which last year won two of the four gold medal championships in THE TRIBUNE'S annual ski tournament, yesterday entered 13 boys in an effort to wrest the team trophy from the defending Norge Ski club. Both of last year's champions will compete again in the meet, which will be held on New Year's afternoon at Riis park, Fullerton and Meade avenues.

George Sedivec, who won the first place medal in the boys' 12 years of age and under, will jump in the next age class, that for boys 13 and 14. Ed Petrick, who won the gold medal in the 14 year class, is entered in the division for boys of 15 and 16 years of age. With these stars as a nucleus, the Fox River club hopes to score the points necessary to take the silver cup, emblematic of the team title.

Confident of Winning Trophy.

Louis Cernocky Jr., secretary and treasurer of the club, has this to say about the chances of his team:

"We have been constant competitors in past tournaments, and I feel confident that these jumping Czechoslovakians will surpass the Norwegians of the Norge club notwithstanding all of their experience. We are entering two of last year's champions, and we have other potential winners. An additional list of entries will be mailed in before the closing date, Dec. 27."

The Fox Athletic club has entered the following:

Send Entries Now.

The Fox River club is the first of the organizations which have placed high in team scoring in recent years to announce its entry list. Its principal opposition probably will come from the Norge club and the Forest Preserve club.

Individual entries may be made on the entry blank which is printed daily in THE TRIBUNE. Clip the blank and fill it out without delay. Mail it to the Ski Editor, sports department, CHICAGO TRIBUNE. No entry will be accepted after midnight, Dec. 27.

Apparently there is no possibility of postponement of the meet New Year's afternoon. However, if postponement should be necessary the tournament will be held on Monday, Jan. 2, or on the following Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8.

215 POLICEMEN RETIRE IN YEAR; SET NEW MARK

Ready Pension Cash Held Big Influence.

An unprecedented number of resignations during the last year has taken many veterans from the Chicago police force. From Jan. 1 to Dec. 16, 215 men have voluntarily retired from the department, according to figures revealed yesterday by James E. McSweeney, secretary. In all of 1931 only ninety-five policemen resigned.

In addition to the resignations, discharges have further depleted the ranks, Secretary McSweeney said, sixty-one men having been let out by the trial board thus far this year. However, there is no difficulty in filling the vacancies and, partly because of the depression, a noticeably new type of applicants is seeking police jobs. Many of the applicants are high school graduates and college men, and quite a few of these hope to make police work their life career.

Some Going "Back to Farms."

"Just why such an unusually large number of policemen are resigning in 1932 is not easily explained," said Secretary McSweeney. "Probably the routine reasons will account for more than half of them; old age, physical infirmities, careful savings to insure comfort in old age, and the economic rise of the children of policemen who insist on doing the supporting.

"Most of the men have saved something and lots of them will go back to the 'old country.' These generally are the Irish boys. Some will go to warmer climates, and some even want to go back to the family farms which they left 50 years ago."

All the retiring policemen quit on pension and, according to Patrick Dwyer, secretary of the police pension board, "we have enough to take care of all of them." Those retiring this year will receive pensions based on the amount of their annual salary as it stood on July 31, 1931. The average police pension is $104 a month, varying according to length of service and age.

Pensions Mean Ready Cash.

According to one official, some of the resignations may be attributed to the attractiveness of the pension.

"Our policemen have gone unpaid now for eight paydays," this official said. "Well now, suppose those who are eligible decide to retire. They'll get their pensions immediately and regularly thereafter. There's no delay in the pension remittances. Also, some of the men fear that the pension rate will be lowered next year."

A man must serve 20 years on the force and be 57 years old before he is entitled to retire with pension.

The oldest man of the 215 who retired this year is Sergt. Thomas P. Magrane who resigned May 5 from the Chicago avenue station at the age of 75. He joined the force on April 28, 1890.

Five lieutenants, 45 sergeants, 1 matron and 1 dog catcher are listed in the 1932 retirements. The rest, with the exception of several operators, are patrolmen. The lieutenants are William J. Davern, Willis H. Barnard, Joseph J. Dubach, Eugene F. Daly and Charles K. Herts. Racially, the Irish and German predominate, but many other extractions—showing a cosmopolitan make up—are disclosed by names.

HAROLD TEEN—HE CAN'T PASS AS AN ADULT YET!

EDMUND COOKE, POET-LECTURER, IS DEAD AT 66

Cleveland, O., Dec. 18.—[Special.]—Edmund Vance Cooke, well known as a poet and lecturer, died suddenly at his home today of a heart attack.

Mr. Cooke was 66 years old and a native of Port Dover, Ont. His first work was published in 1894, a book entitled "A Patch of Pansies." In his earlier years he turned out poetry for children. Among other books were "Rimes to Be Re-read," "Told to the Little Tot," "Brass Tacks Ballads," and "A Souvenir Selection of Poems," the last named being published in 1927.

Speaking at the funeral of his sister, Lillian, a few months ago, Mr. Cooke said:

"And when we stand in the presence of this darker twin of the twin mysteries—life and death—I know of no words to excel those of Socrates, to this effect:

"'Death cannot be an evil, for if we wake again we visit with the great ones gone before us, and if we never wake again, what more grateful than a never-ending slumber?'

"So today I ask the eternal question, 'Whither?'"

Mr. Cooke in 1897 married Lilith Castleberry of Chicago. Surviving are two children, Edmund Jr. and Martha. The funeral will be Tuesday.

SAVE 21 ABOARD CANADIAN BOAT; ICEBOUND 3 DAYS

VICTORIA, B. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Icebound on a small seiner three days after suffering from the lack of food and fuel, 21 white men and Indians were recovering today at a small Queen Charlotte sound community, saved by a rescue steamer.

The J. & J., a small gas boat, was frozen in last Wednesday in Dean channel while returning to Bella Coola from Bella Bella, 75 miles away, following in the wake of the steamer Venture, it was caught in the ice floes. When the J. & J. did not follow the Venture to Bella Coola the small boat's plight became known.

Last night the seiner was located nine miles down the channel from Bella Coola, with the crew and passengers badly in need of food and fuel. They were supplied and the small boat made its way to Bella Coola.

MOON ECLIPSES REGULUS, ONE OF BRIGHTEST STARS

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 18.—(AP)—The star Regulus, one of the brightest in the heavens, was totally eclipsed by the moon tonight for a period of several minutes.

The Harvard observatory, in announcing tonight's eclipse, said that while the moon often eclipses stars it is a comparatively rare occurrence for a star of the magnitude of Regulus to be eclipsed for several minutes so completely.

It acorded astronomers an opportunity for checking the correctness of their calculations of the moon's wanderings through the skies, the observatory said.

Before the eleventh annual session of the American Academy of Optometrists at the Palmer house yesterday, Dr. William Feinbloom of New York told of progress with telescopic lenses in enabling many individuals now counted as totally blind to see. Approximately forty per cent of the patients now considered totally blind, but having as little as two per cent of normal vision, may be enabled to see, Dr. Feinbloom believes.

Instead of one len.: the new glasses have three, but are worn as ordinary spectacles.

NEW QUICK RELIEF FOR COLDS

The quickest way to break a cold is to start fighting it at once. With some people the warning sign is sneezing, with others it is a sore throat, and still others just feel depressed with a congested feeling in the head and throat. Whatever the sign, Mistol now offers you the 2-way treatment that will help you break these colds before more serious conditions result.

1 Drop Mistol in Your Nose Night and Morning

The first step in the Mistol 2-way treatment is to put a few drops of Mistol in your nose when you get up in the morning and before you go to bed at night, and if convenient, during the day. See how quickly the burning, tickling sensation disappears. The inflamed membranes respond at once to the healing oils in Mistol, and you can breathe freely. The handy dropper makes Mistol easy to use.

2 Put New Essence of Mistol on Your Handkerchief and Pillow

The second step is to use the new Essence of Mistol. Put a few drops on your handkerchief and breathe in its healing vapors all day long. At night put a few drops on your pillow and you will get the needed relief for restful sleep. Essence of Mistol contains the same healing ingredients as Mistol but in a form that enables you to obtain its full benefit while you work and while you sleep.

BUYERS WARY THOUGH WHEAT HITS NEW LOWS

Break in Winnipeg Unsettles Market.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices throughout the world are the lowest known and have been unprecedentedly low for months, yet speculative buying has not increased and there are no immediate indications of a large volume of orders coming into the market and sending prices higher. New low levels for all time were reached in Liverpool and other markets, especially Winnipeg, where July wheat sold around 38c on a gold basis. American holders of wheat liquidated their large line the last month and Canadians took their turn the last few weeks, with declines to heretofore unknown levels.

Canadian farmers who had been advanced 40c a bu on their wheat by country elevators had to liquidate, there being no longer a profit in their holdings and no immediate prospect of an upturn. It is said that both the United States and Canadian markets have been well liquidated, although there is no evidence of any material change for the better in the immediate future.

Position Less Bearish.

There is plenty of wheat for all domestic and export requirements, yet the world's position is less bearish than it has been for many months. This is shown by a statement issued by Nat C. Murray, the Clement, Curtis & Co. statistician, who on Saturday said: "Reports on world wheat production, outside of Russia and China, indicate a total this year practically the same as last year. Figures released by the government on Dec. 15 indicate for 42 countries 3,706,247,000 bu, against 3,708,481,000 bu last year.

"The carryover last Aug. 1 was about 50,000,000 bu less than on Aug. 1 the year before [estimated about 850,000,000 bu, against 900,000,000 bu]. The supplies to come from Russia this season will likely be at least 50,000,000 bu less than last season [72,000,000 bu last season, less than 20,000,000 bu this season]. Hence, world supplies for this season is approximately 100,000,000 bu less than last season."

The United States is doing practically no export business, and is regarded as on a domestic basis and likely to remain there for some time.

Canadian Exports Larger.

Exports of wheat from Canada this season have been 109,000,000 bu, compared with 60,113,000 bu for the same time last year. Combined continental and United Kingdom port stocks are now 12,863,000 bu, compared with 13,450,000 bu on Dec. 1, this year, and 40,000,000 bu a year ago. Movement of new wheat from the southern hemisphere to Europe has commenced, according to Broomhall, and exports this week total 4,000,000, compared with 1,766,000 the previous week, and 3,280,000 bu last year. Exports from the southern hemisphere countries usually run heavy during the last part of December and through January and February.

Although rye had good support at times, weakness in other grains carried prices down, with the close 1⅛@1⅜c lower, December finishing at 30⅝c, May 32¾c, and July 34¼c. Barley is expected to do better when the beer bill passes congress, but May barley in Chicago closed 2⅛c lower at 30⅛c.

U. S. Regains All Gold Lost Earlier in Year

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—The payment by Great Britain of her $95,550,000 war debt installment last Thursday in the form of gold wiped out the last of the losses sustained by the United States earlier in the year and lifted the monetary gold stocks of the country to a new high for the year.

The full significance of the event was partly obscured by the interest in the war debt payment itself. But when it is recalled that only six months ago there were fears in high governmental quarters that our gold supplies would be insufficient to sustain the gold standards, the restoration of all the $551,000,000 of gold lost between the beginning of the year and June 15 and the gain of additional gold on top of this takes its place as another important milestone in the road to financial recovery, bankers say.

Gold Movement Huge.

The huge international gold movements of the last year constituted, it is declared, one of the most extraordinary phases of the crisis. At the close of 1931 the United States held monetary gold amounting to $4,460,000,000. By the middle of June these holdings had been reduced to $3,909,000,000 as a result of the "run on the dollar" by European central banks.

Up to the moment that it ceased, the flow of gold from the country seemed to be gaining in momentum. By months, the movement of monetary gold stocks was: January, $44,000,000 lost; February, $62,000,000 lost; March, $36,000,000 gained; April, $23,000,000 lost; May, $215,000,000 lost; June 1 to 15, $243,000,000 lost.

Since June 15 the movement has been: June 16 to 30, $10,000,000 gained; July, $58,000,000 gained; August, $111,000,000 gained; September, $105,000,000 gained; October, $70,000,000 gained; November, $75,000,000 gained; December up to yesterday, $141,000,000 gained.

These gains, totaling $570,000,000, indicate a margin of $19,000,000 over what was lost in the five and one-half months to June 15, representing a net gain of that amount for the year to date. They have brought the monetary gold stocks of the country up to about $4,479,000,000, the highest total since Oct. 7, 1931, when the gold stocks were $4,642,000,000.

This recovery in the gold holdings of the country has not involved any recall of American balances held abroad. These balances continue much in excess of foreign balances lodged here, a position which they assumed for the first time last June. The major part of the recovery has resulted from the release of gold previously earmarked here by foreign central banks during the "run on the dollar."

Furthermore, all indications point, according to foreign exchange experts, to a substantial import movement of gold into this country.

WASHINGTON GAS PROPOSES LONG TERM FINANCING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—The Washington Gas Light company, which serves the national capital and environs, is planning long term financing to provide for $7,000,000 of approaching maturities, including $4,000,000 of mortgage debt due on April 1, 1933, and $3,000,000 of notes due on Feb. 1, 1933. Additional funds will be required for payment of bank loans obtained for extensions and additions to the properties.

The new issue is expected to be $8,400,000 of refunding mortgage gold bonds, carrying a 5 per cent coupon and falling due in 1953. Issuance of the refunding bonds is subject to the approval of the public utilities commission of the District of Columbia. About 84 per cent of the company's common stock is owned by Washington and Suburban companies, a Massachusetts trust, but no management, purchasing or similar contracts exist between Washington Gas Light and any other company.

The company, one of the oldest public utilities in the United States, was incorporated in 1848 under special act of congress, and has paid dividends consecutively for fifty-six years.

PUBLIX MAKES $7,000,000 SAVING ON REAL ESTATE

New York, Dec. 18.—(AP)—Paramount Publix corporation announced today that the revision of the theater leases so far this year had resulted in 637 rental reductions amounting to approximately $3,600,000, of which $1,100,000 is applicable to 1932.

The Paramount organization, one of the largest real estate owners and operators in the world, surveyed 1,044 domestic leases involving an annual rental of $17,196,000. It was stated that total savings effected in the realty department from Jan. 1 to Dec. 1 were approximately $7,000,000, of which $2,300,000 was applicable to that period. The total included a saving of $173,196 on real estate taxes and $2,000,000 in the cancellation of two theater leases.

Under the supervision of John Hertz, chairman of the Paramount finance committee, the corporation was able to renew 98.8 per cent of maturing real estate mortgages.

RAIL AND UNION HEADS RESUME PARLEY TODAY

Each Side Fears to Ask Showdown.

The railroad wage conference, involving $200,000,000 in pay roll charges yearly for over a million men, enters its second week at the Palmer House this morning with managers and labor leaders each striving to read the opposition's card and with both wary of calling for a showdown.

With the maintenance of the 1,250 union delegates mounting to $20,000 daily and the salaries of the management entourage of lawyers, statisticians and detectives running to at least $10,000, it is a costly game. Aside from the direct wage question, however, there are other imponderable factors which make the stakes enormous.

From labor's standpoint, if the cycle of layoffs and wage cuts can be arrested among so large a class as theirs, the downward spiral of depression will reverse, buying power will be maintained and prosperity will return. In the managers' view, labor must allow adjustment of their wages to a parity with reduced commodity prices to permit the carriers at least to meet fixed charges and avert bankruptcy.

Moves in Game.

1. Managers open the game by offering to extend the existing 10 per cent wage reduction indefinitely beyond next Feb. 1, when the basic scale would otherwise be restored.

2. Labor announces its lack of authority to consider any indefinite extension and brands the managers' proposal as a scheme merely to prolong the 10 per cent cut while they pursue their underlying purpose of getting a 20 per cent basic cut from the federal mediation board.

3. Managers admit a 20 per cent basic cut to be their objective, but offer a renewal of the 10 per cent cut for six months, with indefinite extension thereafter. They pronounce this the ultimate concession.

Labor Rejects Proposal.

4. Labor rejects it, citing the objectionable indeterminate feature, on which they lack authority to act. Labor counter-proposes a one year renewal of the 10 per cent cut, the period to be extended to fifteen months if the managers move for a basic cut in the interval.

5. Managers reject the offer as "wholly unsatisfactory" and renew their objection even after labor strikes out the fifteen month clause. Managers repeat their offer of a six months' extension and suggest it be given "serious consideration."

Up to Labor Again.

Thus it becomes labor's next move. The prediction Saturday night that labor would agree to a six months' extension while insisting on return of the basic scale thereafter was reported inaccurate yesterday.

Latest reports from the closely guarded labor conference room was that today's offer will propose a simple renewal of the 10 per cent agreement, dropping a clause in the previous proposal barring appeal to the mediation board while the agreement is in force. The labor executives and their district chairmen were in session with their leader, W. F. Whitney, throughout the day. The managers' committee of nine, led by W. F. Thiehoff, took a holiday.

TO VOTE DEC. 29 ON DETROIT AIRCRAFT CAPITAL REVISION

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 18.—Details of a plan of reorganization for the Detroit Aircraft corporation, now in receivership, has been sent to about 12,000 stockholders. Its directors and officers are defendants in a $5,000,000 suit filed in federal court charging malfeasance.

The plan, to be voted on Dec. 29, proposes organization of a new Detroit Aircraft corporation with authorized capital stock of 200,000 shares of $1 par value, offered one new share for every ten old shares.

Directors would purchase 43,333 shares, leaving 46,000 shares in the treasury. Directors of the old company would furnish financing for the new company to the extent of $175,000.

Directors of the new company would include Secretary of Commerce Roy D. Chapin, chairman of the board of the Hudson Motor Car company, Detroit; C. S. Mott and C. F. Kettering, vice presidents of General Motors corporation; W. B. Mayo, former chief engineer of the Ford Motor company; P. de C. Ball, St. Louis baseball club owner, and Peter R. Beasley, who was president of the Aircraft company for the last 12 months prior to receivership.

RETAIL TRADE GIVES WHOLESALERS LARGER RUSH ORDER VOLUME

Retail trade in the Chicago area continued its seasonal upward trend during the past week, and the holiday buying gave wholesalers a larger run of rush orders for all kinds of merchandise. Reports from the steel industry were also more favorable.

News of a slight recession in carloadings came from the railroads, and employment figures for the past month showed a new decline in jobs in local and neighboring factories, according to the trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Rush orders at wholesale were devoted chiefly to seasonal lines in apparel for men and women, shoes, a small amount of jewelry, and household furnishings, with the volume of sales about the same for the like period last year. Retailers had their usual rush of buying and purchases were mainly for toys and substantial lines of merchandise, with electrical household utensils receiving increased attention.

Steel officials reported a larger number of orders during the past week than at any time since last April. Releases by automobile interests have enlivened the industry as two of the largest manufacturers have come into the market for material for their new models. Another chief factor in the improvement was the increase in structural orders which amounted to more than 10,000 tons, well distributed throughout the country. There are also prospects for fair buying by the railroads in the near future.

Industrial statements disclosed decreases from October to November of 4 per cent in employment and 3.6 per cent in pay rolls. However, these decreases were more moderate than the declines between these two months in 1930 and 1931.

Says Half of Republic Gas Bonds Deposited

Including those definitely promised, more than 50 per cent of the $7,029,000 issue of first lien collateral 6 per cent convertible bonds of the Republic Gas corporation have been deposited with the protective committee headed by James R. Buck, of James R. Buck & Co., of Chicago, which has a plan of reorganization of the company under way, Mr. Buck announced.

AUTO AND OTHER ORDERS CUSHION STEEL DECLINE

Cleveland, O., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Sustained releases for automotive steel and other encouraging developments are cushioning the seasonal slide of the iron and steel markets into the holiday period, said Steel today.

Railroads have released some rails, cities have placed cast iron pipe for stock, the oil industry has made better inquiry for tanks, pig iron shipments have held up unexpectedly well, and in some districts the demand for coke is greater than last month, the magazine reported.

"The drift in production, however, the magazine found, "continues downward, steel operations in the week ended Dec. 17 being off a point to 14 per cent. A further recession is indicated for this week and next week the July 4 low of the depression, or 12 per cent, undoubtedly will be reached. Some plants will suspend from Dec. 24 to Jan. 3, one important mill to Feb. 1.

"December assembly of automobiles is at a rate close to 100,000 units, probably 40 per cent in excess of November. January apparently will equal December, as Ford is releasing more material and parts for new models, Chevrolet is specifying at a rate indicating it will at least equal its 55,000 unit schedule for this month. Such late starters on 1933 models as Pontiac, Olds, Hudson, and Willys will assemble more cars next month than this.

"Following the exceptional structural bookings of a week ago awards this week have receded to 11,609 tons, slightly below the 1932 weekly average. A favorable decision is expected soon on a proposed observation tower for the Chicago fair, requiring 50,000 tons. Because the qualifications for an R. F. C. loan have been tightened measurably the structural industry is losing hope of substantial support from this source."

Cold Weather May Boost Brokers' Florida Business

New York, Dec. 18.—It is estimated that New York Stock exchange firms will have fewer branch offices in Florida this season than a year ago, but a better volume of tourist business is expected by brokers if severe or just seasonally cold weather prevails over the next few weeks. The open winter last year, in conjunction with the economic situation, caused many market operators to forego their usual trip south.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY PUBLIC SERVICE IN $2,000,000 OFFERING

Offering will be made today of a new issue of $2,000,000 Mississippi Valley Public Service company first mortgage 5 per cent bonds, due on Dec. 1, 1954, at a price of 92 and interest, to yield more than 5.62 per cent. The offering syndicate will consist of Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., First Wisconsin company, Edgar, Ricker & Co., and the Banc-Northwest company.

The company will use the proceeds of this financing, together with those derived from the sale at par of $445,000 of its series B 6 per cent preferred stock to its parent company, the Wisconsin Securities company, to provide for the payment of the company's outstanding funded debt of $2,445,000. In addition, an unsecured loan from the Wisconsin Securities company will be used in connection with retirement of the maturing bonds.

Gross earnings of the Mississippi Valley Public Service company for the year ended on Oct. 31, including "other income," amounted to $821,537, with net earnings before depreciation amounting to $352,532, compared with annual interest charges on the company's total funded debt on completion of the present financing of $100,000. More than 97 per cent of the company's operating revenue is derived from the sale of electric light and power.

SENATE TO CHECK BILLS TO CONTROL SOFT COAL MINING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 18.—(AP)—Pending measures to regulate the soft coal industry have been referred by the senate mining committee to a subcommittee of senatorial lawyers to determine whether they are constitutional.

The proposed legislation includes the Davis-Kelly bill which would create a federal commission to regulate bituminous production by licenses and the suggested substitute by Senator Hayden [Dem., Ariz.], setting up a cooperative association among the producers to allocate production and further to regulate the industry by taxation.

Roads to Cut Mileage Book Fares 25 Pct.

Sharp reductions in the prices of railroad mileage books were announced last night by the Transcontinental and Western Passenger associations. The associations include all the important western railroads.

The reductions amount to 25 per cent and mark the first time since before the war that western carriers have sold mileage books at cut prices.

The new scrip books will be placed on sale by the railroads Feb. 1. One book containing $108 of coupons will be sold for $81. This book is good for 3,000 miles of transportation. This book will be good on all lines in the territory west of Chicago, St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans as far as the Pacific coast.

Another book will be sold for use between the eastern points mentioned and Texas, eastern New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming and Montana. This, which will contain $72 of coupons, will be sold for $54 and will be good for 2,000 miles of travel.

"In giving a 25 per cent reduction to purchasers of the new scrip books, the railroads are more than meeting the requests of the traveling men," H. W. Siddall, chairman of the associations, said. He pointed out that last year traveling men advocated a 20 per cent reduction in mileage books in the hearings before the interstate commerce commission.

Seek to Divide Travel.

Railroad passenger officials are reported to be engaged in trying to find a way to reduce service between cities where a multiplicity of trains now exist through a division of the traffic among the various roads.

Take the case of the run between Chicago and the Twin Cities. These cities are served by the Milwaukee, North Western, Burlington, Great Western and Soo. Each road has two or more trains making the run daily. With the sharp decline in passenger travel, revenues are sharply curtailed and trains are often run at a loss.

To cure this situation it is reported in railroad circles that passenger officials met last week to try to work out some way of dividing the available travel fairly.

Unable to Agree.

So far, according to reports, the railroad officials have not been able to get together. While they agree in principle to division they are unable to devise a practical way of solving the problem. When one line is urged, for example, to abandon a night train and to continue to operate a day one, it argues that such a procedure would lose it business.

Another stumbling block in the way of an agreement is the case of travel from intermediate cities to the main points. Some of the officials are reported as saying the abandonment of trains might lose forever business which might be regained when conditions improve.

The amount that could be saved the roads is illustrated in the Chicago-Twin City run which averages about 415 miles for the five roads mentioned. A rail official said yesterday the cost of operating a passenger train is about 80 cents a mile, including charges for bond interest, taxes, etc., or about 50 cents a mile actual operating costs. If one road were permitted to abandon one train it would save in its operating costs—at the 50 cents a mile rate—$151,475 a year.

The same situation applies to travel between Chicago and Omaha, Chicago and Denver and Chicago and St. Louis among other runs.

DIESEL ENGINE USE SEEN WAY TO HELP ROADS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—The Diesel locomotive will prove to be an important instrument in the railroads' war on waste, according to a study by W. R. Stinemetz, an engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company. He compares this type of locomotive, which is propelled by a motor operating on cheap oil fuel, to a motor car in point of ease of operation.

"Like the motor car, the oil motored locomotive is ready to go at the push of the starter," said Mr. Stinemetz. "It requires no care when laid up for the night.

"Steam locomotives need such 'stable care' as dropping the fires, cleaning the ash pan, and so forth. Availability for service averaged 94.6 per cent for thirteen Diesel locomotives in a twelve month period, which means that the oil powered engines could perform twice the work the steam types could render in the same time."

FOREIGN DEBT ACTION IGNORED BY WALL STREET

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18.—Eleven of the twenty-five industrial and utility stocks figuring in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S "average" index closed yesterday at prices higher than their levels of Dec. 17 a year ago. The "combined" average on fifty representative issues of various classifications finished the week at 56.83, or approximately five points above the "triple bottom" resistance levels established by the market on Oct. 10, Nov. 3, and Dec. 3.

The figures "look good"—undoubtedly—to the trader striving to get himself into a spirit befitting the holidays and make believe that the long awaited business turn is still just around the corner, for all the accumulating statistics have to tell him to the contrary. But they do not mean very much as a record of market progress during a week which had long been looked forward to as one of the most crucial of the year and sure to bring important developments marketwise one way or the other.

Market Does Unexpected.

The truth is the market—true to its reputation of doing the unexpected—chose to ignore the foreign debt payments and defaults alike and pursue the even tenor of the narrow way it has been following, with minor fluctuations, since shortly after the election. On only on day of the six did THE TRIBUNE'S index show a change of as much as a point and the net change for the week amounted to only .20—with a minus sign in front of it, which is an arithmetical way of saying that things have come to a standstill once more on the country's leading securities' exchange.

Nor do observers see any prospect of an immediate change in the drab picture. Christmas is at hand and the season almost always brings about a curtailment of speculative activity even in times of prosperity. This year everybody is helping to wear Uncle Sam's dimes thin and the situation is worse than ever. There were no more than a million shares traded on any full day of the week and on some days the volume was not much more than half that.

Earning Statements Ahead.

After Christmas will come the end of the year earnings statements, with their depressing reminders that many of the corporations of the land are still finding it difficult to meet the operating expenses let alone pay dividends to their stockholders. After that there is the wait to see when spring, the season of so many market upturns in the past, may bring forth. Meanwhile, the market will have congress on its back and will be called upon to face some rather disconcerting dividend uncertainties, among them being that of United States Steel preferred next month, which rate many now believe will be omitted, and that of American Telephone which is expected to be cut to $7 or maybe $6.

About the only argument that immediately presents itself to those looking for comfort on this outlook is the prospect that congress may enact some beer legislation soon that will help out toward lightening taxes in other directions. The so called "repeal" stocks, like Owens Illinois Glass, Crown Cork and Seal, and the like, have been discounting the outlook for a modification of prohibition for some time and there are those who believe they have anticipated the possible change about as completely as possible, with prices in general at their present levels.

End of Tax Selling.

Those leaning to the constructive side also find reasons for the faith that is within them in the apparent absence of year end tax selling, such as bore the list down in 1930 and 1931—an improvement due to changes in the tax laws and to the marked absence here in the last two weeks or so of professional bear selling in any great volume.

SALE OF COBERN FLAT BUILDING SET FOR JAN. 10

Roscoe Flats Receiver Reports Cash.

BY AL CHASE.

Sale of the Cobern apartment property, at the southeast corner of Chase avenue and Paulina street, in the Rogers Park district, has been ordered by Court for Jan. 10, 1933, it was announced yesterday by Avery Brundage, chairman of the Bondholders' Protective committee for defaulted H. O. Stone & Co. real estate bond issues. Foreclosure proceedings were instituted last fall. The sale will be held in Room 337, Board of Appeals room, in the County building, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The committee will be represented at the sale, Mr. Brundage states, and will attempt to bid in the property at the lowest price at which it can be purchased to protect the interests of the bondholders who have deposited their securities. The members of Mr. Brundage's committee are: Horatio B. Hackett, secretary, Francis R. Blossom J. L. Kraft, and Charles M. Moderwell. William M. Richards is assistant secretary.

The building, about seven years old, contains thirty unfurnished apartments, twenty-four four room suites and six five room flats. The building was financed with a $150,000 first mortgage bond issue, paying 7 per cent interest. This has since been paid down to $123,000.

Reports Cash on Hand.

F. T. Dustin, appointed on June 1, 1932 as successor receiver to the Citizen's State bank, for the Roscoe stores and apartments at the northwest corner of Broadway and Roscoe street, reports $517 cash on hand on Aug. 31 1932. For the period from June 1 1932 to Aug. 31, 1932 he states total receipts were $3,718. Total disbursements were $3,201.

The Bondholders' Protective committee, of which Newton C. Farr, former president of the Chicago real estate board, is chairman, states that twenty-two of the twenty-four apartments in the building were rented and six of the seven stores were occupied on the first of September. This building was financed by a Wollenberger & Co. bond issue of $170,000, paying 7 per cent interest. This has been paid down to $106,500.

The Straus National Bank and Trust company, receiver for the Belleaire hotel, 420 Diversey parkway, since July 29, 1931, reports gross receipts for the period from June 14, 1930 to Oct. 31, 1932, nearly two and a half years, to have been $205,189. Disbursements were $195,469. Cash on hand on Oct. 31, 1932 is reported as $9,720. This was a Lackner, Butz & Co. and H. O. Stone & Co. $725,000 issue, at 6½ per cent, since paid down to $665,000. Occupancy on Dec. 2, 1932 is reported as 54 per cent.

D'Rose Building Well Rented.

Chester R. Davis of the Chicago Title and Trust company, receiver for the D'Rose building at 5120-22 Sheridan road, reports $923 cash on hand on the first day of November, 1932. Occupancy is reported by the bondholders' protective committee as close to 100 per cent. The two stores are rented and twenty-nine of the thirty-one apartments are occupied. This was a State Bank of Chicago issue of $60,000.

Sam Selikowitz, receiver for the Rosecord apartments at 4015-23 Melrose street, reports cash on hand on Sept. 15, 1932, as $349. For the period from June 29, 1932, to Sept. 15, 1932, he states gross receipts were $1,194; disbursements were $845. The occupancy of the building on Sept. 15, 1932, was reported as 54.84 per cent. This was a Greenebaum Sons Investment company bond issue of $90,000, at 6½ per cent, paid down to $63,000.

FLOUR CONSUMPTION OFF; PRODUCTION ALSO CUT

"Home consumption of flour shows a remarkable reduction since poor times set in, not so much because people have not enough, but we are a very wasteful country and economies are now being practiced," says the Uhlmann Grain company, adding:

"Should the consumption during the next thirty-one weeks not average any better than they did during the first twenty-one weeks (and as a rule the first five months constitute the largest part of flour sales on the part of the mills), our total home consumption would amount to only 111,900,000 barrels which would require about 503,000,000 bushels of wheat. Should our home consumption as a maximum be only equal to 503,000,000 bushels of wheat, with 80,000,000 bushels for seed and 50,000,000 bushels for feed, we would have left of this year's crop about 95,000,000 bushels for export, and as exports will be considerably less, we shall go into the next crop with a considerably larger carryover than we had in the beginning."

Russell's Commercial News of New York gives the estimated flour production and movement since July 1 this year, compared with other years up to Nov. 26, or for 21 weeks, in banks as follows, the last three ciphers omitted.

MEN—THIS MORNING!

TODAY a few men are going to solve their 1933 success problems and follow a definite program that will make their own efforts fruitful. They will seek a connection with a company that not only has held its own, but which has progressed during the past few years. Here is a successful corporation that places in the hands of the right men everything they need for the profitable exercise of their ability. Many men in this unique business who are making $4,000, $5,000 or $6,000 a year, started as you may begin, at $100 to $150 their first month. Now they are progressing toward the level of others who make $7,000, $8,000, $9,000 and $10,000 a year.

Here are a few of last week's local earnings: A former carpenter made $60 in 1 day; a former shopman, $100 in 2 days; a toolmaker, $75 in 1 day; an advertising man, $50 in 1 day; a builder, $60 in 1 day; a former salesman, $50 in 1 day.

Your limit is set only by yourself. One group of 65 men received in CASH in 1931 an average of over $7,400 each as our U. S. income tax affidavit proves! Our company's business is known in many countries—leads in its field in every one of them! This is our 38th consecutive month of increase. 1932 business records-1933 will establish greater records for Electrolux, Inc. [not refrigeration]. No seasons or layoffs. Nothing to buy, deposit or invest. This full time proportunity demands hard work. Earnings paid weekly. Experience unimportant—character, determination vital. We cannot give you quality you lack, but we can and will train you to have an equal opportunity with others now making large incomes regularly. This is permanent!

Men of mettle—real workers—preferably between 25 and 48 years, with family obligations, and who wish to establish on a sound foundation with a big going concern, where they can make more and more money, will call for personal interview from 9 a.m. to 1 p. m. TODAY Dec. 19, Room 529 Madison-Kedzie Bldg., 9 S. Kedzie-av.
